RAILWAYMEN'S CLAIMS

RESTORATION OF FORMER WAGES

There is some uneasiness among the railway section of the Great Northern Railway Company's employés. The workers are seeking the restoration of the 10 per cent. deduction in wages which was made by the Irish Railway Wages Board before the strike, and which was accepted by the unions after the stoppage.

This deduction was continued after negotiations last year, but the period of agreement expired some months ago. It was then decided that the existing rates and conditions would operate until the balance sheet for the first half of 1935 was available.

The men are now bringing pressure to bear on the unions to secure a final decision regarding the 10 per cent. deduction and some betterment of conditions without further delay. Negotiations between the unions and the company are expected to open towards the end of the present month.

In the meantime, the Dublin Trades Union Council is dealing with the claim of the Great Southern Railways shopmen in the city area for the restoration of the 10 per cent. deduction from the wages of skilled and unskilled workers. Should any increases be secured, they will also extend to the shopmen on other sections of the Great Southern Railways. Over a dozen unions and several thousand men are involved in the application. A preliminary discussion on the subject took place at Inchicore last week.

PORT STOPPAGE

The stoppage of lorries at the port of Dublin by officials of the Irish Seamen's and Port Workers' Union continues. In many cases the persons who are refused loads of cargo are owner-drivers. The union's point of view is that all workers employed in this section of the transport industry must hold union cards. The question of the number of workers employed on vehicles of different tonnage has been raised, and the schedule laid down by the Transport Trades Group in the Dublin Trades Union Council is being enforced.

Negotiations with a view to wage adjustments are about to take place between the unions and the Dublin Master Carriers' Association.

OTHER DUBLIN DISPUTES

The members of the National Union of Vehicle Builders, who took unofficial strike action at Messrs. McCairns's motor factory, Alexander road, Dublin, on Saturday, will resume work to-day. The men reported for duty yesterday, but the resumption was postponed pending a conference between representatives of the firm and the union.

The metal finishers are still on strike. In a statement issued yesterday they state that they stopped work because one of their number was dismissed.

Th strike of box-makers in the employment of Messrs. Williams and Woods, Dublin, will be the subject of a conference between the firm and the Irish Women Workers' Union to-day. The conference will be held under the auspices of the Department of Industry and Commerce.

Last week a proposal was made that the question at issue—the substitution of piece rates for time rates in this section of the factory—should be the subject of a conference after the workers had resumed on piece rates. This proposal was not acceptable to the union.

SENTENCED TO DEATH

BOXER WHO SHOT GIRL

Raymond Henry Bousquet, a thirty years old Canadian boxer, was sentenced to death by Mr. Justice Porter at the Old Bailey, London, yesterday, for the murder of Hilda Meek by shooting her at Aldred road, Kennington.

Mr. Eustace Fulton, the prosecuting counsel, stated that the accused man and Meek were in love. Bousquet was very jealous of the girl. On July 10th they had tea at her mother's house and there was a quarrel about a telephone call which Meek received.

Bousquet declared that she was going to meet someone after he had gone, and, pulling out a revolver, shot at her three times. The third bullet struck her in the lungs. She ran into the street and died.

Her mother followed the girl into the street and Bousquet shot her in the stomach. Fortunately, the mother recovered, added counsel. When the girl's father arrived Bousquet said: :"I have done it to Hilda and the old woman."

In his statement at the police station, Bousquet, referring to the dead girl, said: "She has broken my heart and ruined my life; I don't care if I die to-night; she had her fortune told by a gipsy some time ago, who said she would be murdered in three years. I said: 'My God, never.' And to think I should be the one to murder her."

In a further statement Bousquet was alleged to have described how he found Meek saying on the telephone: "I will meet you at 10 o'clock. You know where." He shouted into the telephone: "She is not going to meet you anywhere." Hilda shouted: "Yes, I am." He lost his temper, took his gun out of his pocket and shot her.

A letter was read from Bousquet to the girl, which contained the sentences: "You were told I was already married. Why the hell do you want me? . . . You have wrecked my life. . . . You have turned me against the most wonderful woman in the world—my wife."

Mr. Daniel Hopkin, for the defence, submitted that at the time the shot was fired Bousquet was insane.

David Eager, boxing manager, who handled all Bousquet's English fights, said that he considered Bousquet was "punch" drunk. The symptoms were "vacant look, far-away thoughts and general unbalance." He said Bousquet received a tremendous amount of punishment to his head.

Dr. Tennenbaum, the doctor at the Blackfriars boxing ring, said that after a fight with Sexton, Bousquet complained of double vision, sleeplessness, unstable walk and depression. He was sent to hospital, where the doctors stated accused was suffering from cerebral contusion. In view of the state of Bousquet's brain, Dr. Tennenbaum said he was not surprised by the sudden attack on July 10th.

UNABLE TO SWIM

WOMAN WHO SAW HER HUSBAND DROWN

A wife who saw her husband drowning at Thorpe Bay, Essex, told the Coroner, at the inquest at Southend-on-Sea yesterday, that he could only swim a little and she not at all.

Randall Bennett, of Birmingham, her husband, was drowned on the day before he was due to return to work after a holiday.

Mrs. Doris Bennett said that she was in a bathing hut when she saw her husband in difficulties, and she called for help. A woman entered the water fully clothed. At that time only her husband's hands and wrists were visible. Then he disappeared entirely. Other help arrived later.

Evidence was given to the effect that Bennett's body was recovered in twenty minutes, and artificial respiration was applied for an hour.

Recording a verdict of accidental death, the Coroner, Mr. H. J. Jefferies, complimented Mrs. Lily Clark, who was stated to have dived, fully dressed, into the sea in an effort to rescue Bennett.

DUBLIN DISTRICT COURT

£10 FOR THE STATE

OWNERSHIP OF STOLEN MONEY

In the Dublin District Court yesterday, Detective Inspector J. Lynch and Detective Officer Brady sought an order for the disposal of £10 13s. 9d., which was in possession of the Guards since April, 1934, when it was found in the possession of Joseph Carroll, alias Kennedy, a man of no fixed residence, when he was arrested in Amiens street on April 28th, 1934, and had in his possession £128 3s. 8d.

Inspector Lynch stated that Kennedy was subsequently convicted in the Dublin Circuit Court of having blown open with explosives a safe in the Court Laundry, Harcourt street, and stealing £125, and also of stealing £112 from the Lilliput Laundry, Duumurry, Co. Antrim, on April 27th, 1934. After the monies were paid back to the companies from which it was stolen there remained in the possession of the Guards £10 13s. 9d.

The Justice made an order forfeiting the money to the State.

CHARGE OF PICKETING

MAN SENT FOR TRIAL

The hearing of a charge of "besetting and picketing" against five young men, which was adjourned from Friday last, was resumed yesterday. They were summoned by Messrs. Denson, Ltd., footwear specialists, who are owners of shops in different streets in the city, with a view to compelling them to abstain from interfering with the legal rights of the complainants.

The defendants were:—Michael O'Neill, Upper Basin street, Dublin, who was charged with picketing 36 Cornmarket; Lawrence Keller, Smithfield, Dublin, charged with picketing 14 Wicklow street; Desmond O'Connor, Fingal street, Dublin, charged with picketing 100 Talbot street; James Mitten, Quinn's avenue, Mount Brown, charged with picketing 5 North Earl street; Denis Geoghegan, High street, Dublin, charged with picketing the shop at 86 Capel street, Dublin.

Mr. Basil McGuckin, K.C. (instructed by Messrs. M. Larkin and Co.) appeared for the complainants; Mr. Alec Lynn (instructed by Mr. J. B. W. Boyle) appeared for the defendants.

The defendants were members of the Workers' Union of Ireland, who, it was alleged, were involved in a trade dispute with Messrs. Winstanley at the boot and shoe factory.

Mr. R. P. O'Neill, director and secretary to Messrs. Denson, Ltd., stated that he saw Keller picketing the shop in Wicklow street. He was carrying a placard which bore the words: "Don't patronise this shop, strike on." He had seen pickets outside the shop on several occasions from August 15 onward. These pickets were composed of members of the Workers' Union of Ireland who were engaged in Messrs. Winstanley's factory, where a dispute was then in progress. That picketing resulted in a loss of business.

The witness repeated the evidence he gave at the previous hearing with regard to the non-delivery of packages sent to the firm by the L.M.S. Railway Company from the North Wall depot. The non-delivery, he said, was because of the action of the pickets.

The defendant Keller was committed for trial, and was allowed out on bail.

The further hearing of the case against the other four defendants was adjourned until to-day.

£10 FINE FOR DANGEROUS DRIVING

(BEFORE MR. HANNAN.)

Frank Butler, Malahide road, was summoned for having driven a motor car in a manner dangerous to the public.

Guard Hurley stated that a Dr. McCarthy complained that the defendant droye out of Howth road into Charlemont road at a very fast speed, and the doctor, who was also driving a motor car, was forced over to the other side of the road in order to avoid a collision.

The defendant denied that he drove in a dangerous manner.

The Justice imposed a fine of £10, with £1 costs, and also endorsed the defendant's licence.

Mr. H. Hare (instructed by Mr. J. P. Collins), who appeared for the defendant, said that there would be an appeal.

GIRL CYCLIST KILLED

COLLISION WITH LORRY

Sun, shining in a girl cyclist's eyes, was one of the possible causes for a fatal accident, advanced by a witness at an inquest on Maureen Finnegan (18), of 77 Upper Dorset street, Dublin, in Jervis street Hospital, Dublin, yesterday.

As the girl cycled out from the Malahide road on to Marino Mart on last Friday evening, said the witness (Mr. Edwin Bosenet, of Marguerite road, Glasnevin), the evening sun was in her face, and she might not have seen the lorry, which was approaching from the direction of the city. She struck the left rear mudguard of the lorry and fell to the road. In his opinion the accident might have been avoided if the driver used all the precautionary measures at his disposal.

The girl died about two hours after reaching hospital, said the house surgeon, Dr. John Maher, who attributed death to a fracture of the skull and internal injuries.

Two men, who were sitting in the back of the lorry at the time of the accident, John Coogan and Thomas Doyle, told the City Coroner and jury that they were travelling about 20 miles an hour along Marino Mart when they felt the lorry swerve and then heard a crash. The lorry pulled up in about 30 to 40 feet.

John Kenny, of Sandford, the owner and driver of the lorry, said it was impossible for him to have avoided the accident. He first saw the cyclist when she was fifteen feet away. The girl had one hand on the handlebars and was fixing her coat with the other. He thought that she was, going to pass on his near side, as she was striking diagonally across the road to go in the direction of the city.

An hour or two after the accident Guard Lumley, of the Carriage Office, tested the lorry, and told the Court that he considered the brakes were in a very poor condition. Travelling at 20 miles an hour the vehicle required 40 feet in which to come to a standstill. If the brakes were normal the lorry should stop in about 24 to 26 feet. The electric horn on the lorry was not working.

Returning a verdict in accordance with the medical evidence the jury added that in their opinion the accident might not have occurred if the brakes were in perfect working order.

Inspector O'Callaghan conducted the case on behalf of the Civic Guards, while Mr. C. McGonagle represented the next-of-kin, and Mr. T. A. O'Reilly appeared for the owner-driver of the lorry.

THE AMERICAN MARKETS

COPPER AND AMUSEMENT ISSUES FIRM

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

NEW YORK, Monday.

With little in the news to help bears, market analysts regarded to-day's set-back as a technical correction. The turn-over amounted to 1,490,000 shares. Apart from a few specialities, the market declined in the afternoon on renewed profit-taking. Coppers displayed resistance on the strength of the commodity, and Amusements on indications of improved earnings. Sears, Roebuck and Company's sales were regarded as very favourable, but Merchandising issues eased on a statement by the president of Montgomery, Ward and Company that high taxes are seriously affecting earnings.

The market finished easy, but with prices above the day's low levels.

Call money remained at ½ per cent., and the outside rate was unchanged at ½ per cent. Prime paper was quoted at ¾ to 1 per cent. Open market discount rates were unaltered.

Sterling exchange opened unchanged at 4.95, but declined during the morning to 4.94⅞. The rate fell further to 4.94⅜ in the afternoon, and finally closed 1c. lower compared with the previous close at 4.94.

Silver was unchanged at 65⅜.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND NOTES

DUBLIN LOWER

TRAMS AGAIN EASIER

GREAT SOUTHERN ORD. WEAK

Local descriptions were the chief centre of interest on the Dublin Stock Exchange yesterday, but the tone was dull for choice. British Industrials remained in the background and made a quietly irregular showing. The Free State Loans held steady, but Land Bonds eased a fraction and War Loan fell 8s. 9d.

Banks were rather lifeless.

Guinness Ord. held 140s. 9d., but Dublin Ords. shaded off.

Great Southern Rails tended lower in places and the Ord. fell over two points.

There was fresh selling of Dublin Trams, which brought a fall of 2s. 6d.

Alliance Gas Ord. gave way, and Ever Ready (Ireland) Pref. also eased slightly. A. Armstrong Ord. and Burke Ord. made headway, and Irish C.S. Buildings gained a point. Williams Ord. rose 2s.

Tobaccos moved against holders and B.A.T. Ord. fell 1s. 6d. Imperials were a shade lower. Imperial Chemicals, Lever 7 p.c. Pref. and Coats Ord. showed small losses.

LONDON SUBDUED

GILT-EDGED FALL BACK

As a result of week-end developments in the Italo-Abyssinian dispute, the London Stock Markets commenced the second week of the account yesterday in subdued fashion. A nervous feeling prevailed in most sections, and it was not surprising, therefore, that buyers held off and scattered selling occurred. Gilt-edged securities were a particularly weak spot, and movements in Industrials were mostly adverse, while Gold Mining shares also drooped. Among the few good features was a demand from Amsterdam for Unilevers.

Although Friday's advance in the gilt-edged market was followed by a set-back, declines were due more to lack of buying than to any selling pressure. Quotations were lowered throughout the list, with Old Consols, Local Loans, War Loan and Funding Loan showing substantial losses. India stocks became dull in sympathy with gilt-edged.

In the Foreign Bond section Brazilian Fundings and Germans attracted support and finished higher, but interest in other descriptions was practically negligible. Egyptian Unified lost 1½ to 101½, and Poland Sevens dropped a point.

British Rails were idle, and in the absence of support values depreciated. Interest in Foreign Rails was limited, but San Paulo Ord. and Cordoba Central issues were active exceptions. The former added 1½ to 44, while rises in the latter ranged up to a point. Colonials were unsupported and gave way all round, while little attention was paid to American Rails, among which Atchison and Union Pacific were dull spots.

The Industrial market opened quietly firm, as the Board of Trade returns for the past month created a favourable impression. These did not stimulate business, however, and, with foreign political events affecting sentiment, the trend of prices became unfavourable, and the market as a whole closed dull. Amsterdam buying of Unilevers was attributed to fears regarding the future of the guilder. Aircraft issues moved somewhat irregularly, but, with the exception of a decline in Rolls-Royce, there was little net movement in prices. The Iron and Steel group lacked support, and some issues were affected by profit-taking. Electrical Equipments also sagged, and changes among Tobaccos were adverse.

A decline in "Bats" was due to talk of increased competition in the Far East. Elsewhere Cable stocks, British Oxygen, Triplex and other leading issues receded.

The feature of the Mining markets, which were on the dull side owing to paucity of interest, was activity in Spaarwaters on news of encouraging developments on the property. Other Kaffirs after showing firmness finished slightly lower, while movements in West Africans were also unfavourable. Among base metals, interest in Copper shares was stimulated by buying of these issues on Wall Street anticipation of metal prices in America being further advanced. In the Oil share market Attock continued to advance on the strength of the cable issued last week, and Royal Dutch were supported from continental centres, but other issues were inactive and mostly lower at close.

AMERICAN FINANCIAL NOTES

REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.

DOMESTIC COPPER REACHES NINE CENTS.

The price of domestic Copper has been advanced to 9 cents per lb. The increase in price coincides with the release of the August copper statistics showing world stocks of refined copper on August 31 at 549,830 tons, compared with 569,378 tons on July 31. Sales last Friday were estimated at 9,000 tons, against 3,698 tons on Thursday. An early increase in price was reported on Saturday to be increasingly likely.

U.S. ECONOMIC MISSION TO LATIN-AMERICAN REPUBLIC.

An American economic mission to the Latin-American Republic along the lines of the recent Far-Eastern mission will be sponsored by the National Foreign Trade Council. Details of the mission, which will visit at least 11 countries, will be worked out at the coming National Foreign Trade Convention at Houston, Texas, on November 18.

£37,000,000 REFUNDING ISSUE EXPECTED SHORTLY.

Wall street circles expect an early refunding of 185,000,000 dollars of 4½ per Cent. Federal Land Bank Bonds. Tentative terms in connection with the operation are reported to be now under discussion.

VIRGINIA ELECTRIC TO SEEK NEW MORTGAGE.

The stockholders of the Virginia Electric and Power Company will be asked for their approval of the creation of a new mortgage of 42,000,000 dollars, against which 36,000,000 dollars of new 4 per Cent. Bonds are expected to be offered. The proceeds are for the refunding of 32,000,000 dollars of 5 per Cent. Bonds, while the balance will be utilised as working capital.

THE INDUSTRIAL MARKET

TENDENCY UNCERTAIN

Although the Board of Trade returns for August created a favourable impression in the Industrial market yesterday, a dull tone developed, owing to the uncertainty surrounding the international political situation. Among the few bright spots, Unilevers responded to buying from Amsterdam, owing to fears regarding the future of the guilder. Irregularity characterised the trans-Atlantic counters, following Wall street advices. Nickels made the best showing, closing around 30⅛, after 30⅜. "Emmies" seemed undecided, being rather offered in the late dealings at 26s. 9d. The Cable and Wireless Stocks were subject to scattered sales, noticeably the "A" Ord., which gave way to 22.

Business in Aviation and kindred descriptions was on a reduced scale, and price changes were of little importance. Rolls-Royce declined 1/- to 7¼, and losses of a few pence occurred in a few others.

AUSTINS GAIN.

In the Motor group, Austins, after being dull, rallied and closed with a small gain at 55s. 7½d. Humber and Fords also improved, but Leylands lost 1s. Electrical Equipments failed to maintain the firmer tendency which developed on Friday last, due almost entirely to slackening of demand. Electric Supply shares also became dull, lower prices being general.

*Close in New York, 4.94.

Although the Scottish Power Company is making an issue of shares on bonus terms, the shares were offered, and declined 1s. 3d. to 40s. 3d.

Quieter conditions prevailed among Iron and Steel shares, and, owing to some profit-taking, sales price changes made an irregular showing. Dorman Long were a firm spot, and small gains were shown by Babcock and Wilcox and Swan Hunter. On the other hand, losses occurred in South Durham, John Brown, United Steel, and several others.

STAVELEYS EASE.

Despite the increase in profits last year, Staveley shares eased to 42s. 6d., and Wm. Cory also gave way.

Little disposition was seen to give fresh support to Brewery shares, but declines on balance did not exceed 9d. Guinness lost this amount at 140s. 3d. Trading in the Alcohol section was on a small scale, and prices generally remained fairly steady. The Tobacco leaders reflected the general trend. "Bats" reacted to 5½ on talk of increased competition in the Far East, while Gallahers receded to 6¼.

In the Newspaper section movements were adverse. The Stores group showed little alteration.

Among Provision and Catering descriptions United Dairies came on offer, following the decision made by the Milk Marketing Board, and the shares were finally 2s. 6d. lower at 64s. 6d. Lyons were dull.

UNILEVERS FIRM.

The two Unilevers were, however, firm spots on renewed rumours of a devaluation of the guilder, although they closed below the best. A dull tone was noticeable in the Textile section. Patons and Baldwins, however, proved an exception, improving to 57s. 9d.

Among Rayons Courtaulds and British Celanese issues gave way, but Canadian Celanese were a firm spot.

Apart from an improvement in Hong Kongs the Banking section had a heavy appearance.

Insurance issues reflected the trend of Gilt-edged stocks, though a little support was noticeable in places.

Shipping descriptions made a mixed showing.

Among Land shares, Hudson's Bays hardened slightly, but Forestals and Sudans were dull spots.

OXYGENS DULL.

The Miscellaneous section made a rather poor showing in the absence of fresh support. British Oxygens proved a dull spot, although there was little stock on offer. The Building group had a dull appearance, although movements generally remained within narrow limits. Triplex Glass shed a further fraction, and Dunlops eased, as did a firm spot at 68s.. In other directions Henlys, James Finlays, exceptionally, were British Aluminium, Swedish Match "B" and United Molasses also receded.

OILS FEATURELESS

It was reserved to two shares—Royal Dutch and Attocks—to provide all there was of interest in the Oil Share market yesterday. The weakness of the guilder on Saturday last was responsible for early firmness in Royal Dutch. There was some speculative buying of Attocks during the morning. Neither of the shares, however, was able to hold initial gains, demand slackening in the afternoon. The remainder of the market was featureless.

RUBBERS LOWER

Dull conditions in the commodity section and surrounding uncertainty had an unfavourable influence on the Rubber Share market yesterday, and, with buyers absent, the downward movement in prices was resumed. Few falls were important, however, the largest being those of 10½d. to 2s. 9d. in Rubber Trust and 7½d. in Batu Tiga and United Sua Betong to 24s. 4½d. and 48s. 1½d. respectively. Business in the commodity section was on a very small scale, with spot rubber selling at 5 7/16d. per lb. United Kingdom stocks of rubber increased by 754 tons last week.

MINING REPORT

Commonwealth Mining and Finance.—Cable says:—"An important development has taken place at 50 feet level, where new north drive on eastern lode is proving ore body extends further north than expected. From a point in old north drive, 126 feet from Number 5 shaft, a crosscut has been extended east a distance of 18 feet, where lode disclosed. A main drive has been extended north on lode; total distance driven 53 feet. Lode exposed over full width of 6 feet drive. Results samples taken along this drive as follows—1 to 6 ft., 9 ozs. 18 dwts.; 6 to 12 ft., 14 dwts.; 12 to 18 ft., 1 oz. 18 dwts.; 18 to 29 ft., bar greenstone; 29 to 35 ft., 2 ozs. 5 dwts.; 35 to 41 ft., 2 ozs. 14 dwts.; 41 to 47 ft., 2 ozs. 3 dwts.; 47 to 53 ft., 1 oz. 19 dwts. Face still in ore."

Spaarwater Gold Mining.—A cable says: "28 West Haulue, which is being advanced from Sub-Nigel, has intersected reef at the west side of dyke, the average for 10 feet sampled giving 576 inch dwts. over 22 inches. The eastern drive from 28-1 winze on the east side of the dyke gives 724 inch dwts over 22 inches for 15 feet sampled."

IRISHMAN'S DIARY

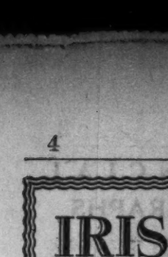
Gleaners : A Sacred Book : Road Houses
Dame Kendal : Another Irish Film

Where Hairpins Linger

Milkmaids in Scotland have not "bobbed" yet. So we may assume, from a statement by Professor Wright, of the Royal Veterinary College, who, speaking at Margate last week, told of losses of animals through eating metallic objects which have fallen in the pastures. He said that a Scottish farmer had given up the employment of girls for milking because many of his cows died after swallowing hairpins. Since this wise farmer employed men no cows have come to an unnatural end. It is a wonder to me that the girls did not come into line with tonsorial fashion, and so keep their jobs.

Dame Madge Kendal

It is hard to believe that nearly thirty years have passed by since Mr. and Mrs. Kendal made their farewell appearance in Dublin. I couple them, because for forty years they upheld the ideal stage and family partnership, and in their histrionic and private spheres of life they invariably acted together, with unvarying success. Margaret Robertson, a Grimsby girl, played her first leading part at Bradford —that city of remarkable theatrical associations, where Sir Henry Irving died— and from there her career was unqualifiedly successful. She met and married William Kendal, in 1868, when both of them were appearing in Colly Cibber's "She Would and She Would Not, or The Kind Imposter," and shortly afterwards they came over and played that comedy in the first Theatre Royal in Hawkins street, under the management of John Harris. After several return visits to the Theatre Royal they appeared in the Gaiety Theatre in 1877, by which time (according to "A Historical Retrospect of the Gaiety Theatre") they already were among the prime favourites with Dublin audiences. Among their earlier memorable performances at South King street were "The Squire," "The Queen's Shilling," and "Lady of Lyons," in 1882, in all of which they were supported by John Hare. Their more frequent visits in later years will be happily remembered by the older Dublin playgoers, who appreciated and enjoyed the high traditions of legitimate drama set up and maintained by John Gunn and John Hyland. Probably the Kendals's most popular presentation was "The Elder Mrs. Blossom"; but I always considered that Madge's greatest part was as "Mistress Ford" in Sir Henry Beerbohm Tree's revival of "The Merry Wives of Windsor."



The Kebra Negast

The Abyssinians have a book, and this book is not only the story of Abyssinia's glory and that of her Kings, but part of their munitions of war. Former rulers believed that this book was just as efficient a defence in time of war as a gun. On many occasions, too, when Abyssinia's independence was threatened, that sacred book is supposed to have brought them victory. In war-time it is carried into battle, and, while the Emperor's Chamberlain, or Shadon, faces the foe, the Emperor sits in a tent behind the lines consulting the Kebra Negast, as it is called.

In 1896, when the Abyssinian warriors wiped out the Italian Army at Adowa, Menelik II. brought the Kebra Negast to the front. While Ras Makonnen, father of the present Emperor, did the fighting, Menelik prayed from the book at the rere. When Hailé Selassie goes forth to meet the Italians the Kebra Negast will go with him. But, while the charm of Abyssinia's sacred book has not always worked the oracle, it has generally met with success when used on the defensive. The Emperor Theodore, who was by all accounts an aggressive party, experienced some heavy British shellfire as he lay in his fortress at Magdala reading this book. In order not to fall into the hands of his conquerors, he committed suicide when he found himself surrounded. Naturally, the "book" would not act up to its best form for him. Theodore was evidently of the dictator mould, and when he quarrelled with his followers who deserted him, he seized all the British officials in Abyssinia and cast them into prison because Queen Victoria ignored his application for aid from England. The sequel to his action was the aforesaid-mentioned shellfire from a British punitive force.

After that engagement the Kebra Negast found its way to London among the flotsam picked up by the British soldiers after the suicide of Theodore at Magdala. In London it was sent to the British Museum, where it rested until traced by the Emperor Yohannes II. (John), successor to Theodore. He, it will be recollected, was known as the Negusa Negasti, or King of Kings. He, too, went to war with the Egyptians and the Dervishes, but not until he had succeeded in getting Lord Granville to restore the Kebra. Although Yohannes won his wars, with, as he believed, the aid of the sacred volume, he was struck down himself with a stray bullet at the moment of victory. The Kebra Negast is guarded night and day in the cathedral at Addis Ababa. Whether it will ever be taken to Rome, as it was to London, seems in the lap of the gods at the moment.

"The Luck of Ireland"

When I met Mr. Richard Hayward, of Belfast, in Dublin a week or two ago he told me that he was about to make a new Irish film. He was very enthusiastic about the project, and said that he expected it would show a big advance on some other films which have been "shot" in this country. Field work in his film, which is entitled "The Luck of Ireland," is now going on at Glynn, near Larne Harbour, County Antrim. The Glynn, as it is popularly known, is a picturesque spot, and is one of the gateways into the famous glens of Antrim, or "The Glynnes," as they are called in old books, old documents and old maps. Cameramen and all the technical staff have come over from Elstree, but the players themselves are Irish.

Mr. Hayward is a very versatile fellow. He has published verse, and some years ago he made a collection of old ballads and "come-all-ye's" with a characteristically bitter foreword from Mr. St. John Ervine. At the time Mr. Hayward promised to follow up this volume with another giving the music of the pieces he had collected, and I hope he has not abandoned this idea. To Dubliners he is best known as actor, playwright and producer for the Belfast Repertory Company, and an old member of the Ulster Literary Theatre.

An Ulsterman

Mr. Joseph Compton, whom his friends are honouring on his appointment as London organiser for the Vehicle Builders' Trade Union, is a sturdy Ulsterman, having been born in Cookstown, County Tyrone, in 1881. In appearance he is not unlike the conventional John Bull, but he is a most genial character, and a personal favourite with political and industrial opponents. It was in Belfast he got his first job, and that was in a solicitor's office at eleven years of age. The law was not to his taste, and three years later he was apprenticed to the coachmaking trade in Glasgow. His push and energy soon brought him to the front in the trade union movement, and, in succession, he became Glasgow secretary, Scottish secretary, executive member, and organiser of his union. He has sat, too, on Manchester Corporation. In his organisation he was a zealous promoter of the craft union movement, did much to organise the shopmen employed by railway companies, and led the campaign for what are known as district rates for these crafts. On many occasions he has visited Dublin in the interests of his craft.

Mr. Compton did not take his politics from Belfast, but became an active member of the British Labour Party. Twice he stood for Swindon, and in the Parliament in which Mr. Ramsay Macdonald was Labour Prime Minister in 1924 he sat for Gorton, in succession to the Right Hon. John Hodge, but with twice the latter's majority. In his idle moments he takes to gardening and bowls.

Road Houses

An innovation which has found favour with cross-Channel motorists is the establishment of road houses. To all intents and purposes they are ordinary inns fully developed to meet the demands of twentieth century motorists. The passing traveller is invited to drop in here for a meal, a week-end, or, better still, a holiday. The most popular houses are equipped with swimming ponds, tennis courts and golf-links, and even shooting and fishing rights It would not, of course, be economical for private enterprise to cater for the motorist in Ireland on similar lines, but a serious effort to emulate these businesses, even to a small extent, would vastly increase the income of many of our country hotels. It is interesting to note that Germany has responded to the growth of democratic road travel by providing stopping places for picnickers, where seats and tables are provided free. This enables ramblers and cyclists to have their meals in comfort, thereby eliminating one of the greatest deterrents to these pursuits.

The Gleaners

Although human gleaners seem to have vanished as a class, from the stubble fields of the Irish countryside, yet there are many others, and a cornfield from which the sheaves have been carried home is a very busy place just now. Every stubble field has its flock of crows, though they much prefer the place where the corn still waits to be taken to some sheltered haggard; but this has been an early season, and in most of the cornfields there is only gleaning to be done. Every tree that overlooks such a field has its company of wood pigeons that swoop down upon the scattered ears of corn, returning at the faintest alarm, to their leafy shelter. The partridges are having a last fling, and their crops are filled to bursting point with hard, ripe grains. I have never seen so many sparrows together as rose from a stubble field the other day, and when they lighted upon the hedgerow bushes and chattered the still September day was loud with their noise; and, when the twilight comes, the wild duck skim the hedgetops and glean busily.

SCHOOLBOYS' ADVENTURES

HURRICANE, FLOODS AND FOREST FIRE

Thrilling experiences in a hurricane while camped on the summit of a mountain ridge, floods which carried away stores and museum specimens, and a forest fire on a 70-miles front, fell to the lot of 54 English public school boys who arrived at Liverpool yesterday. They were members of the Public Schools' Exploration Society's Newfoundland expedition, under the leadership of Surgeon-Commander G. Murray Levick.

"It was the most exciting time in the Society's career," said Commander Levick. "One party of 40 boys marched through dense forest and terrible country on the uncharted South-West River to its source.

"I was in charge of the western party, and while camped on the summit of the middle ridge, 1,000 feet up, we were struck by a hurricane, with torrential rain during the night. The wind was blowing at 90 miles per hour, and the tents narrowly escaped destruction. We were lying in nine inches of water all night, and the boys suffered from wet and cold.

"The behaviour of the boys was exemplary and admirable. Work continued, and the survey of the district was completed."

ENGLAND PLAYERS

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Some years ago Mr. H. G. Owen Smith played cricket for South Africa against England. He then proceeded to play Rugby football for England against Ireland, and I think against Wales and Scotland. This year I see he played cricket for an England XI. against South Africa. Can anyone explain what qualifications the English powers that be use when selecting players to represent England at these games?—Yours, etc.,

"PUZZLED."

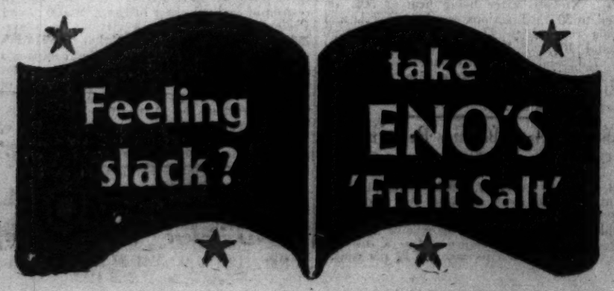
RATHMINES HOUSING

In a report to the Rathmines Development Association by Messrs. Madigan and Conway, it was stated that negotiations were well advanced for the securing of a virgin site in the Harold's Cross area for the building of houses to relieve the slum areas in Rathmines. Dr. J. E. Conway presided at the meeting, and the following members of the Committee were present:—Mrs. Townshend, the Hon. Ethel MacNaughten, Miss Lynch, Mrs. Quilton, Messrs. A. O'Malley, W. Ferguson, W. B. Joyce, B.A.; T. J. Coady, E. Madigan and J. Kennedy (honorary secretary).



FILM NOTES

Claude Rains in a New Picture

FROM OUR CINEMA CORRESPONDENT.

OF all the new stars which have emerged within the last year or so, I can think of few who have impressed me more strongly than Claude Rains. He made his first appearance—though "appearance" is exactly the wrong word —in "The Invisible Man," where it was very hard to judge his real ability. The audience never saw him, and the photographic tricks occupied nearly all its attention, so that Rains himself was in some danger of being forgotten. Would that bizarre film, however, have been half so good if it had not been for his voice, and the sinister quality which he managed to infuse into it?

In his next film there was no doubt about him. "Crime Without Passion" gave us one of the finest pieces of screen acting that has been seen here for some time, and, although "Margo" was very good in this film, it was Rains who carried off the honours. Again, his voice had a great deal to do with it—he made it smooth and malevolent, and it helped him to portray a really evil character in a manner that would have been beyond the reach of mere acting.

His Latest Film

THIS week at the Metropole he appears in another picture, "The Man who Reclaimed his Head." As a film it is not quite up to the standard of its predecessors —it is about the horror of war, and I have noticed that Hollywood always treats that subject with a rather heavy hand. It is not that the anti-war films are badly conceived; but they nearly all become sententious about half-way through, and they weaken their own case by overstating it. In the present film, for example, the munition-makers are the villains of the piece, and they are shown conducting their plots in such a melodramatic way that it spoils the story. The illusion is broken; one feels at once that real people, however evil, do not behave like that.

This is a pity; for Rains himself was preserving the illusion so well that the film promised to be really interesting. His acting is superb; and, although it is at its best in the opening and closing scenes, it keeps to such a high level all through that one forgets the occasional banalities of the film, and its impossible conclusion. He has been given a more "sympathetic" rôle this time—as a gentle and sensitive idealist who is exploited by unscrupulous men—and he portrays it almost equally well. Joan Bennett is a little flat by contrast, though her performance, taken by itself, is very good.

Broad Scots

WHEN the "trailer" of "The Little Minister" was shown, my interest turned to something like horror when Katharine Hepburn, approaching to the foreground, remarked, "It's a braw, bricht, moonlicht nicht." Probably those were not the actual words, but, whatever they were, their effect was much the same. The unexpected shock of hearing Miss Hepburn talking broad Scots is a little unnerving, though, to tell the truth, one rather tends to forget the accent as the film goes on. But why will they do such things to film actresses? Katharine Hepburn is one of the most attractive of our younger stars, and she has already a nice, characteristic voice of her own without having to adopt the accents of Thrums. Although she makes the change with ability, it is not a change for the better.

Still, as it would have been obviously impossible to make a film of "The Little Minister" in which Babbie spoke in an English accent throughout, I suppose it cannot be helped. In the film, which is being shown at the Grafton this week, she has a part which is well suited to her style in other ways, and she gives quite a pleasant performance. John Beal, Alan Hale and Reginald Denny also appear.

"Gay Divorce"

WHEN there are so many bad musical films it is a relief to find one which can be sentimental without being sloppy, and where people do not find it necessary to croon instead of sing. "Gay Divorce," which is being shown at the Capitol, is an excellent film, and I wish there were more like it. It is thoroughly American, but not offensively so, and has that "snap" about it which none but the Americans seem able to get. Fred Astaire, whose name is already known as a dancer, proves again that he is a good light-comedy actor as well, and his performance is mainly responsible for the film's liveliness. Ginger Rogers is very good also, and their dances together are ingenious and attractive. The songs are tuneful—though some of them have got a little elderly by now—and two of the minor parts are filled very amusingly by Edward Everett Horton and Alice Brady.

The Savoy is showing "Stamboul Quest." It is a well-told story about spies, though we are getting rather familiar with the plot—in which, of course, the beautiful woman spy is sent off on a dangerous mission, and jeopardises her hopes of success by rashly falling in love. Still the incidents are handled so well that it would be a little ungracious to stress the point, and in any case the acting of Myrna Loy is worth watching in whatever film she appears. She is partnered in "Stamboul Quest" by George Brent, who has re-appeared on the screen after what seems rather a long absence.

There is a new Mickey Mouse cartoon also, introducing us to Man Friday, a most convincing savage. I hope we may meet him again.

"False Witness," which is being shown at the Corinthian, has Gene Raymond, Henry Hull and Frances Drake in the cast. The supporting film, "Stone of Silver Creek," is a "western," in which Buck Jones and Noel Francis take part.

At the Grand Central Jack Holt and Edmund Lowe appear in "The Best Man Wins." It is a "tough" film about deep-sea divers—rather like a film in which Victor McLaglen appeared some weeks ago—and is quite well done.

production both here and in London next month.

"Jimmy Boy," the comedy which features Jimmy O'Dea, has also been finished, and I suppose that it will be shown here before long. Another film with an Irish subject, "The Informer," has, I believe, finally got past the Censorship Board, and it should be very interesting.

Still Showing

"The Invisible Man"—the first film in which Claude Rains took part, and very good in a macabre kind of way. At the Sackville until Thursday.

"Ruggles of Red Gap"—One of the year's best comedies, with some really fine acting by Charles Laughton. At the Theatre de Luxe until Thursday.

"The Captain Hates the Sea."—Rather complicated as regards plot, but there are good performances by Victor McLaglen, John Gilbert, Alison Skipworth, and Walter Connolly, among others. At the Pavilion, Dun Laoghaire, from Thursday.

INTERNATIONAL LACROSSE

U.S.A. LADIES' TEAM FOR DUBLIN

A United States ladies' lacrosse team arrives in Dublin from Liverpool this morning for an international match with an Irish team, the only international event in their tour. They have had several important club matches while in England, however, and some practice in Brighton.

During their stay in Ireland they will live in County Wicklow, and after a drive through the county this afternoon they are being entertained to-night at Rathmines Castle by Sir John Purser Griffith. To-morrow they will see the racing at the Curragh, and in the evening will visit the military tattoo. The international match against Ireland will take place at Lansdowne road on Thursday.

The captain of the team, Miss Anne Pugh, of Baltimore, visited this country in 1933 as a member of the United States hockey team. She is a lacrosse coach at a school in her native city. The President of the United States of America Hockey Association, Miss Gertrude Hooper, is also travelling with the team, although she only started to learn lacrosse this year.

AUCTIONEERS MEET

At a large and representative meeting of the Council of the Irish Auctioneers and Estate Agents' Association held at 23 Lower Ormond quay, Dublin, on 11th inst., the following were present:—Mr. T. Morgan Good (president), Messrs. D. P. Hoey and Henry Connolly (vice-presidents), Captain G. P. C. Quin, Dublin; Alex. Haslett, T.D., Monaghan; Wm. Black, Roscommon; Thomas Callan, Dundalk; T. A. Leahy, Mallow; G. N. Jessop, Maryborough; John D. Palmer, Waterford; Henry Dowse, Dublin; Ireton Jones, Dublin; James F. Armstrong, Kells; George A. Knight, Clones; M. Shields, Carrickmacross; W. H. Jordan, Drogheda, and the Law Agent. Apologies were received from Messrs. Wm. P. Smith, Navan; Wm. Roe, Roscrea; J. H. Roche, Sligo, and Raymond V. Judd, M.A., Dublin.

Attention was drawn to the public advertisements of members who do not use the letters M.I.A.A. after their names. The Council considers it important that the letters should be used. Satisfaction was expressed at the success of the first conversazione held under the auspices of the Association. The hope was expressed that it would be the forerunner of many to be held during the winter months. The Council looks forward to the co-operation of the members to make the publication of the Year Book and Diary for 1936 a success.

Other matters discussed were:—Auctioneers' liability to billposters in case of accidents; income tax allowance on members' subscriptions, and valuations by unlicensed persons.

A special meeting of the Parliamentary Committee will be held at the offices of the Association, on Friday, 20th inst., at 3 p.m., when a full attendance is expected. Next meeting of Council will be held on Wednesday, 9th October, 1935.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL

RUSH FOR OPENING NIGHT SEATS

So great is the public interest in the opening night of Dublin's newest theatre—the Theatre Royal—that the entire 3,000 seats available were sold within one hour and a half after the booking office opened at the Regal Rooms. The balance of the seating accommodation is specially reserved for guests.

The Royal management regrets that so many were disappointed after waiting so long. In spite of the fact that sufficient written applications were received to book out the theatre in its entirety, the management felt that the general public should have the first claim on seats. Those who were disappointed, however, will be interested to know that the "New Royal Revue" will play for the entire week—following the opening—at 6.30 and 8.45 p.m.

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING

ITS PLACE IN BUSINESS

PAPER AT DUBLIN ROTARY CLUB

Dealing with "Some Fallacies About Advertising" in a talk to the Dublin Rotary Club at the Metropole Restaurant yesterday,

Mr. L. C. Blennerhassett said that one was the oft-heard statement: "We can't afford to advertise; it is too expensive." If this were even broadly true it would belie all that was known of the greatest industrial successes of modern times. Nearly all started with modest resources, but allocated a definite amount to newspaper advertising. To every firm marketing a branded line, he said, newspaper advertising is an indispensable part of the selling process. Some people who say they "can't afford" to advertise have a keen sense of the power and value of free paragraphs and pictures. Behind the "free paragraphs" attitude there were the fallacious implications that "nobody reads advertisements"; that goods or services can best be sold in the guise of "news," and that the reading public believes that free paragraphs carry a greater impress of truth than honest and well-written advertisements. On this point Mr. Blennerhassett dealt with the need of skilful draughtsmanship, the tendency to use too much 'copy,' and the infrequent changing of the wording. He also alluded to the ill-advised practice of infrequent insertions of advertisements. Very often, he said, such a method is a sheer waste of money.

MILLIONS FOR PUBLICITY

As showing the vast amount of money allotted to advertising by some of the shrewdest brains in modern industry, Mr. Blennerhassett quoted some figures of the known expenditure on newspaper and leading magazine advertising by certain maufacturing groups in Great Britain. No corresponding figures are available for strictly Irish industries.

The following figures cover the year 1934: There was expended on tobacco and cigarettes advertising over £1,800,000, on hosiery £100,000, on radio sets nearly £500,000, on motor cars almost £750,000, on beer nearly £650,000 (a sidelight on which amount is that Guinness's spent as much as £40,000 in a three months' period), on household soaps £600,000, on toilet soaps nearly £450,000, on tea over £50,000, on pedal bicycles £100,000, on beef essences nearly £200,000, and on patent medicines nearly £2,000,000

The business man who wholly ignores newspaper advertising, or inserts merely an occasional advertisement, is severely handicapped in the race for increased turnover, and, most of all, for net profits.

Mr. P. T. Montford said that, if a business could not be advertised, then it should be sold; but, if the best price was to be obtained, it would have to be advertised for sale, so that advertising could not be done without.

Mr. M. Moran spoke of the value of poster advertising.

The Rev. Dr. R. K. Hanna said that publishers had got such a hold on certain publications in the way of advertising that it was impossible to arrive at the merits of a book by reading the reviews. This was a case in which advertising was carried too far.

Mr. G. J. Clampett stated that advertising was a subject that required study, and the Vocational Education Committee of the City of Dublin had for some years provided classes in which it could be learned. Speaking generally, he said that they were not used to the extent that the advertising chiefs in Dublin hoped they would when the scheme was being launched.

NEWSPAPERS BEST

Mr. Kevin Kenny said that after an experience of thirty years he had found newspaper advertising the best for producing results.

Mr. J. R. Coade advised those who wanted to advertise to do so through an expert, and not to advertise an article unless it was right.

Mr. Cormack, Canadian Trade Commissioner to the Free State, agreed that a good business could only be kept going with the help of advertising.

Mr. Oswald Jamison, chairman, presided, and was thanked by Mr. F. M. Summerfield on behalf of the members for the garden party given last week.

Mr. R. Percy Cordner, Santiago, Chili, and a native of Dublin, was present, and conveyed greetings from the Santiago Rotary Club.

mences to-night, when selected items will be relayed to listeners. Until television becomes general the purely spectacular items in all these big entertainments must necessarily be eliminated from the programme for broadcasting, and only those which lend themselves to listening be relayed.

To-night, on the Dublin, Athlone and Cork wavelengths, listeners will be afforded an opportunity of hearing at 7.55 the Overture by massed bands, pipes and drums, of the Regular Army of the Saorstat. During this overture Colonel Fritz Brase, the distinguished Director of the Army School of Music, will introduce an entirely new arrangement of Irish dance music.

The narrator for the entire broadcast of the Tattoo proper will be Colonel Michael Hogan, whom, it will be remembered, was the commentator on the International Military Jumping at this year's Dublin Horse Show.

An item of musical interest in the Dublin programme occurs at 7.15, when Dr. J. F. Larchet, distinguished as composer, conductor and teacher, will give a Lecture Recital, taking for his subject: "Charles Villiers Stanford."

Lynn Doyle is the pen name of a very busy Dublin man, who covers such a wide field of activity that it is sometimes difficult to know how to describe him. If there be many like the lady who, on coming out of the R.D.S. after a scientific lecture by Mr. Doyle, was heard to say: "I always thought Lynn Doyle was a humourist," they should tune in to the Northern Ireland programme at 7.45 and listen to him reading one of his own short stories: "Dear Ducks."

Northern Ireland will also broadcast George Shiels's two-act comedy, entitled: "Tully's Experts." Throughout the play the scene is laid in the sittingroom of an eccentric old doctor in a dingy house in the country. The time is about 11 o'clock on a boisterous November morning. The cast consists of well-known Northern broadcasters.

Cherubini, who boasts five Christian names, was born in Florence one hundred and seventy-five years ago. He died in Paris in 1842. To-night Germany is paying tribute to the famous composer by giving an anniversary programme, consisting of a performance of his opera, "L'Hotellerie Portugaise" ("The Portuguese Inn"), which will be relayed from Cologne. A closer link in the life of the great composer occurs when in 1784 he was invited to London, was much noticed by the then Prince of Wales, and held the post of Composer to the King for one year.

LIVELINESS AT MEETING

LOUTH COUNTY COUNCIL

FIANNA FAIL'S PROTEST

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

DUNDALK, Monday.

HEATED exchanges marked the meeting of the Louth County Council in Dundalk to-day, when Mr. James Haire (Fianna Fail) protested against the tion of the County Council in instituting oceedings against the Attorney-General of e Free State for the retention of the agri-ltural grant, and declared heatedly that e proceedings would merely have the effect putting a few hundred pounds into the ckets of Blue Shirt counsel. If the Council st the ratepayers would have to pay, and the Council won the taxpayers would have pay. They could not expect good treat-ent so long as they adopted an attitude of bellion against the lawfully constituted overnment of the country. Up to the esent the people of the county had lost ousands of pounds in housing and roads cause of bringing the action.

Chairman (Mr. James T. Magee)—In other ords, you say that might is right, and that stice is not right.

Mr. O'Haire—I say that the Minister is ite right in what he has done.

Chairman—And the Minister is right in ly giving to his own friends? That is an traordinary proposal for any Government put forward.

SPITE ALLEGED

Mr. O'Haire—I say that the proposal of a majority of the County Council was rried merely because of political spite and alousy. If you, as an auctioneer, were pointed receiver over a number of farms I sure you would be satisfied.

Chairman—I would merely do my duty, d see that no political crush would rob people. The suggestion that I want ceiverships is ridiculous in view of the fact at no man in the Free State has done more expose the immorality of seizures for land nuities than I have done.

Mr. James Filgate protested that the anna Fail members were not getting a ance to air their views at the Council eting.

Mr. Hugh Magee (Fianna Fail) said that wanted to make it clear that the Fianna il members had not opposed the Chairman's election at the annual meeting, because ey knew they could not defeat him. A ong attitude had been assigned to them roughout the country for their failure to ntest the chair.

THE ANNUITIES

Chairman—People might have assumed, o, that I had gone your way, when the t is that I merely tried to put into practi-l effect the Government's policy. He added at he knew of people to come and look for oney that was not due to them until 1937, try and pay their annuities.

Mr. Byrne—They wanted the money to pay e banks and the auctioneers.

Chairman—No; to pay their debts, and to ovide the money to keep idlers idle.

The Council unanimously passed a resolu-on authorising the raising of a loan of 3,600 for a water scheme for Gyles's quay, r. Woods stating that the place was a pular seaside resort, and at present its ater supply was a mile or half a mile away om the village, and the water had to be dled up sixty feet on a rope.

"PLAIN PEOPLE'S ENJOYMENT"

JUSTICE DEFENDS DANCES

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

CARRICK-ON-SUIR, Monday.

In the Carrick-on-Suir District Court to-day Justice McCabe, in granting dance licences, said that he thought the publication given of the alleged bad side of dancing had done much harm.

"Doubtless, we have saints and scholars in plenty," he said.

He was dealing there with the plain people, who come to dances for the pleasure of a "hop." The people had self-restraint and self-control and a regard for virtue, and were simply enjoying themselves at dances. That was his experience of dancing. His position was to interpret the police code, and not to give an opinion on morals. He would not dictate to any person what kind of dances they should dance. Local enthusiasts could use their influence.

VOLUNTEER HALL DANCES

DISTRICT JUSTICE'S PROTEST

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

DERRY, Monday.

Volunteer halls all over the country were claiming to hold dances without any restrictions whatever. The regulations, if not applicable to them, became a farce, said Justice Walsh at Moville Court to-day. He asked Superintendent Heaphy to bring the matter to the attention of the authorities.

When the Justice had granted a licence to the Rev. James Lagan, C.C., in respect of St. Eugene's Parochial Hall, reference was made to the Moville Volunteer Hall, and the Justice remarked that people might ask why should the Parochial Hall be subject to restrictions if dancers could go up the street and dance all night in the Volunteer Hall.

Mr. Michael Bonner, Court Clerk, said that he and the other members had resigned from the local Sluagh Committee, as they took exception to the Volunteer Hall being run as an ordinary public dance hall.

Mr. Michael White, solicitor, said that people alleged that Fianna Fail were running dances there for improving their finances.

The Justice said that he would not discuss that. He added that he thought there should be a prosecution, because if people felt that one hall could evade all restrictions there would be a general conspiracy to evade the whole Act.

Mr. C. Hope Johnston, editor of the Northern Herald, Bangor, County Down, was married in Glasgow on Saturday to Miss Helen B. Moffat, Hyndland, Glasgow.

BEWARE OF PAIN AFTER EATING

Do you dread your meals? Are you for ever wondering what you can eat with safety and freedom from pain? Are you, in fact, living in fear and agony from stomach trouble?

Scarcely anyone escapes this scourge of modern life. Some are wise and take it in time. Others endure terrible torture—but even they can do the same as the wise ones, and find quick relief in Maclean Brand Stomach Powder.

An amazing volume of evidence proves that Maclean Brand does bring relief. Sufferers from gastric and duodenal ulcers and from acute gastritis have found in it a remedy worth untold gold. Their letters are documents of wonderful joy and thanks.

You can be like them. You can once more enjoy the good food that Nature intends you to enjoy. Get a bottle of Maclean Brand Stomach Powder at once. You have only to take one dose to feel its benefit—and a short course will have lasting effect.

But it must be Maclean Brand with the signature "ALEX. C. MACLEAN" on the bottle. None without it is genuine, and you dare not risk your health by taking powder of which you know nothing. Maclean Brand is never sold loose, 1/6, 2/3 and 5/3 in bottles in cartons of powder or tablets.

DUN LAOGHAIRE WATER SUPPLY

ARRANGEMENTS WITH DUBLIN

STATEMENT BEFORE TRIBUNAL RESENTED

A PROTEST was made last night at a special meeting of the Dun Laoghaire Borough Corporation concerning a statement made on behalf of the Dublin Corporation before the Local Government Tribunal. The meeting had been called to consider what action the Borough Corporation would take before the Tribunal.

Mr. Rice, the Dublin Corporation Law Agent, was reported to have said at the Friday's sitting of the Tribunal:—"The position of the Corporation was that it was prepared to withdraw its opposition and to facilitate Dun Laoghaire in its application for an extension of boundary, provided Dun Laoghaire would agree to pay a just price for the water the Corporation was supplying. The draft agreement had not been completed by Dun Laoghaire. The conduct of Dun Laoghaire in reference to the agreement was dishonourable."

Senator E. T. Duggan, chairman, said that they had read with surprise the allegation of bad faith. So far it had not been contradicted. Certain negotiations had been carried on between the Borough Manager and the Borough Surveyor and officials of the Dublin Corporation in connection with the price paid by the Borough to the Dublin Corporation for water, and an agreement was come to that in the event of the borough boundary being extended the Borough Corporation would pay a certain flat rate for water in respect of their existing area and the area over which they might obtain control.

THE AGREEMENT

They were at present paying 2.88d. per 1,000 gallons of water to the Corporation of Dublin, and the Dublin Corporation had never sought to raise the price until the recent inquiry held at Dun Laoghaire Town Hall, when it was suggested that a uniform price of 6d. per 1,000 gallons for the whole borough, if and when extended, be charged. That was accepted by the Borough Corporation, but the proposal to extend the Borough area was still sub judice, therefore, there could be no question of any breach of an agreement, based on a contingency which had not yet arisen.

The Council went into Committee to consider the case that was to be put forward at the Tribunal on behalf of Dun Laoghaire Corporation.

GREASE WRONG FOR SCALDS

DOCTOR'S WARNING AT INQUEST

A warning against applying grease to burns or scalds was given last night at an inquest at Deal (Kent) Hospital on Janette Stanley, aged 20 months, who died from the effects of scalds, received when she pulled a pot of boiling tea over herself.

The father, Private Stanley, of the Royal Marines Dépôt, Deal, said that he put castor oil on the burns.

Surgeon Lieutenant-Commander E. Pollard, Medical Officer at the dépôt, who treated the child, said:—"It is very unwise to apply grease or oil to burns or scalds, because it is difficult to remove the grease in order to supply the modern method of tannic acid, which is a much superior remedy. The application of grease or oil was an old-fashioned idea which they were trying to eradicate. It is ingrained in the public mind because their grandmothers used it," he said, "but it is wrong."

The Coroner (Mr. E. Allfree) said that in such cases it was best not to apply anything until a doctor was called. He recorded a verdict of death by misadventure.

BRITONS ABROAD

COMPLAINT ABOUT BEHAVIOUR

Earl Winterton, M.P., has voiced the views of many travellers who are indignant at the manners of a section of Englishmen—and women—in other lands. He recalls an occasion at Napes when, in its famous museum, on a visit of a party of English tourists, the air was rent with shrieks and high-pitched laughter. The men were badly dressed, and the women of the party wore clothes very wanting in chic compared with those of women from other countries in the building. The noise they made, he says, was insufferable.

Lord Winterton suggests that it is the duty of steamship companies to try to induce their passengers abroad to adopt an attitude more in consonance with the traditions of a great nation.

A reporter yesterday heard further criticism of some English tourists. One traveller said that at Palma, on the most solemn Roman Catholic day of the year, he had the humiliating experience of seeing three English women turned out of the Cathedral by physical force. They came to the Cathedral wearing preposterous paper hats and with bare arms. Another traveller said that a certain type of too boisterous Englishman had been known to dance on Continental café tables, waving mugs of beer—a liberty which was thought by the dancers to be amusing, but was regarded as in the worst possible taste by more sober onlookers.

Canary-coloured pullovers and other rather garish garbs were also criticised, and it was stated that many English girls had been known to appear this summer in busy foreign cities—not pleasure resorts—wearing very inappropriate beach pyjamas.

An official of the Travel Association said that he had sometimes heard complaints of English tourists overseas. But he pointed to one respect in which foreigners have wholehearted praise for Britain. "I have never heard any complaints from foreign visitors about their treatment in this country," he said. "They invariably pay tribute to the courtesy of our people and our police, for example, in giving them every assistance when they have lost their way or are in other difficulties."

OBITUARY

THE REV. FATHER D. MOLONEY, P.P.

The death occurred at a nursing home in Dublin yesterday of the Rev. Daniel Moloney, parish priest of Moycarkey. Father Moloney was about eighty years of age, and had been ill for some weeks. Born in Ardmaylt, Co. Tipperary, he was ordained at Thurles in 1882, and appointed to the Liverpool Mission, where he ministered for some ten years. On being recalled to the Archdiocese of Cashel, he acted for a time as secretary to the late Archbishop Fennelly, after which he was appointed curate in Bansha and Kilmoyler. About ten years ago he was appointed parish priest of Moycarkey. Father Moloney worked earnestly for the welfare of his people; he was mainly responsible for the initiation of drainage and other schemes for the betterment of his parishioners.

COLONEL SIR J. D. LEGARD

Colonel Sir James Digby Legard died at Norton Malton, Yorkshire, yesterday, aged eighty-nine. He had a distinguished career in the Royal Horse Artillery, serving in the Zulu War as Deputy Assistant Adjutant-General, and receiving the medal and clasp. He also served in the Boer War. Sir James was knighted in 1909. He is survived by Lady Legard.

DR. T. M. TATE

Dr. T. M. Tate, of Kilclief, Downpatrick, died suddenly at Ballyculter yesterday. He was exercising a horse, when he had a sudden heart seizure, and was carried to a neighbouring house, but was dead before medical aid could reach him. A son of the late John Tate, J.P., Downpatrick, Dr. Tate qualified in Dublin University in 1889. He had been head of the medical staff of Down Infirmary for many years, and on retiring from that post he continued to serve as consultant at the infirmary and at the Down Mental Hospital. Dr. Tate was secretary of the East Down Harriers. He is survived by his wife, a son, and two daughters.

LACROSSE TRIAL

The "A" goalkeeper jumping out to save during an attack by "B" forwards during yesterday's lacrosse trial match, played on the Pioneers' ground at Milltown, Co. Dublin, in preparation for Thursday's international match against the United States, at Lansdowne road, Dublin.

PICKED OUT A POLICEMAN

IDENTIFICATION PARADE COMEDY

When Thomas Davison McIlveen, of Spamount street, Belfast, was remanded at Belfast Police Court yesterday charged with holding up a man in a bookmaker's office with a revolver, McIlveen's solicitor asked what happened when an identification parade was held.

"A witness picked out a policeman in plain clothes in connection with the hold-up," said the Chief Constable.

Desmond McGranahan, who was alleged to have been held up, said that McIlveen came into the office in Union street, produced a revolver, and, telling him to stand against the wall, took £24, while pointing the revolver at him. Then he disappeared.

McIlveen was remanded for a week.

PROBLEM FOR 60,000 GIRLS

MUST FIND NEW JOBS IN GERMANY

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BERLIN, Monday.

About 60,000 Aryan girls and women between the ages of 17 and 45 have troubled minds in Germany to-night. They are the servants employed in Jewish households, who must find new jobs by next January, in accordance with Hitler's new law forbidding Jews to employ Aryan maid-servants.

It is calculated that there must be about 60,000 non-Jewish maids employed in Jewish houses.

One such girl said to-day: "What shall I do? I have been with my family for years. They have always been decent to me. Now I shall have to look for another job, just when the market is crowded."

The official view is that domestic service by young girls in Jewish households exposes them to moral dangers.

An association of Catholic workmen in Muenster, Rhineland, has been dissolved by the secret police for "activities inimical to the State." These are alleged to have included an attempt to sabotage the activities of the Nazi Labour front.

SUPPOSED FOOD POISONING

CHILDREN ILL AFTER TREAT

Swansea doctors are inquiring into an illness, believed to be a form of food poisoning, which has attacked one hundred children. The symptoms developed after a thousand children had been entertained to tea in Swansea Market on Thursday last. Thirty-two of the children affected live at the Thistleboon Orphanage, Mumbles, where it was stated yesterday that a treat was held there last Thursday simultaneously with the one given at the market. Food parcels were sent to the orphanage and later thirty-two children became ill. Doctors have been examining food samples, but it is not known whether the illness is due to food poisoning. The matter has been reported to the Swansea Health Department.

CYCLIST'S REMARKABLE SUICIDE

"I have never heard of a case of suicide like this before," said Mr. E. G. B. Fowler, the Leicester City Coroner, at an inquest yesterday on Henry Hooper, aged 30, a Leicester hosiery machine fitter, who was killed by a motor lorry on Friday when cycling at Syston.

Peace Harold Phorold, of Bourne (Lincs.), the driver of the lorry, said that he was driving at eighteen miles an hour when he saw Hooper. "When he was level with the lorry he turned his handlebars and rode straight in front of me. I had no chance to avoid him," said Phorold.

Replying to a question concerning Hooper's appearance, he added: "He sat up straight and stared at me through the wind-screen. I think his action was deliberate."

The foreman of the jury, returning a verdict of suicide whilst of unsound mind, said the jury hoped that it would not unnerve the lorry driver. There was no reflection whatever on him, and the Coroner agreed.

It was stated that Hooper's father was killed by a motor lorry at Penzance some 14 years ago, when he was recovering from an illness, and in his case a verdict of suicide was returned.

Miss Emily Hooper said that her brother had been depressed since having his first finger amputated through a slight accident at work about Christmas. He had complained of pains behind his eyes, but doctors had failed to find anything wrong with him, and he said on Friday that he was going to see about his eyes at the infirmary. Her brother had also stated that he wished he were dead.

COUNTY LIMERICK SEARCH

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

LIMERICK, Monday.

The residence of Mr. Martin Quish, Galbally, Co. Limerick, father of Captain D. Quish, who is at present on parole from Arbour Hill Prison in consequence of a death in the family, was searched. The outhouse, barns and hay ricks also were searched. Nothing of an incriminating nature was found.

EARLY MORNING 'BUS ACCIDENT

TWENTY-FOUR PEOPLE INJURED

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

WATERFORD, Monday.

A Great Southern Railway 'bus, returning to Waterford from Youghal with a party of excursionists, collided with a ditch a mile beyond Kilmacthomas at one o'clock this morning. Twenty-four of the passengers were injured—none seriously—and treated at the Waterford County and City Infirmary and the Waterford County Hospital.

When the accident occurred the passengers were thrown into a state of confusion. The injured were removed from the 'bus to the roadside, where they awaited the hospital ambulance and two railway 'buses from the dépôt in Waterford.

The injured, the majority of whom were treated in the extern departments of the hospitals, chiefly suffered from head and leg injuries, caused by flying splinters of glass and the collapse of a number of the 'bus seats. Only three were detained.

The driver of the 'bus, Nicholas Caulfield, is stated to have received rib injuries, and he is being treated at his home, Lower Yellow road.

The 'bus was badly damaged.

The names of the injured are:—Matthew Dunphy, 35 Smith's lane; Patrick Mackey, Tanyard Arch; Joan Carroll, 91 Lower Yellow road; Mrs. Grange, 3 New street; Julia Loughlin, 6 Tanyard Arch; Patrick Collins, 7 Slievekeale; Mrs. Fitzgerald, Thomas street; Ellen Nicholas, 5 Slievekeale; Ellie Tubbridd, 3 Grady's lane; Anne Fitzgerald, Slievekeale; Mrs. McEvoy, 14 Summerhill; William Tubbridd, 3 Grady's lane; Mrs. Murphy, 41 Gracedieu road; Statia Lenihan, Anne street; Mary Devereaux, 38 Slievekeale; Thomas Quinlan, 23 George street; Ellen Connors, Presentation road; M. Walsh, Morrisson's avenue; Walter Walsh, Morrisson's avenue; Mrs. Carroll, Presentation road; Timothy Connors.

The latter two were detained.

Those in the County Hospital are:—Pierce Ormond, 21 Slievekeale, and his wife, Mary Ormond; Ellen Collins, 7 Slievekeale; Mrs. Kate Carroll, 24 Gracedieu road.

THE MISSING TANKER

STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF BUILDERS

A statement regarding the Joseph Medill, the largest all-welded tanker in the world, which, it is feared, has been lost on her trip across the Atlantic, was made to a reporter at Jarrow last night by Mr. K. Denham Christie, chairman of Messrs. Swan, Hunter and Wigham-Richardson, Ltd., who built the ship.

Mr. Christie said that the vessel was built under Lloyd's special survey, and a model was tested in the tanks at Teddington for speed and steering qualities. She had twin screw Diesel engines of about 800 horse-power, and on her trials the ship's engines, steering gear and everything worked well. For the voyage out the vessel was loaded with coal for two months. In addition to the Joseph Medill, which was bound from the Tyne to Toronto, for service on the Canadian lakes, Messrs. Swan, Hunter have built about eighty Canadian lake boats, and all of them successfully crossed the Atlantic.

GREAT FLOOD TIDE

MANY HOMELESS FAMILIES

The flood tide at Barton-on-Humber yesterday reached to within a foot of the emergency barrier erected after the flood on Sunday.

It was two feet higher than the previous tide, and a watch was kept last night at danger points as high-water approached. Several victims of the floods were still homeless yesterday and were cared for by neighbours and friends, while a canteen in a chemical works provided meals for the distressed families.

There has been a splendid response to the official relief fund.

An examination yesterday revealed that the lower rooms of at least sixteen cottages, together with the furniture, have been extensively damaged.

TELEPHONES IN BELFAST

THE AUTOMATIC SYSTEM

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Monday.

It is officially announced to-day that the change over from manual to automatic telephones in Belfast will be carried out on November 5, when the system throughout the city will be transformed. Each subscriber will make the change in his own establishment, the operation being of the simplest character, and no difficulty in this respect is anticipated by the postal authorities.

The transformation will entail a considerable displacement of labour. About thirty telephone girls will be retained to work the new system, but for something like 150 girls there will no longer be any employment in the exchange. Of these 90 are at present employed on a temporary basis, and no employment will necessarily be found for them. For the remainder, posts will have to be found. It is hoped that most of them will be absorbed by country post offices in Northern Ireland, but a number may have to go to England or Scotland.

ATTACK ON BANK MESSENGERS

DARING HOLD-UP IN CASABLANCA

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

CASABLANCA, Monday.

A daring raid by armed bandits, in broad daylight, in the Rue Nolle, one of the busiest streets of Casablanca, this morning resulted in the wounding of three persons and the theft of 125,000 francs (£1,560).

A European and two native messengers of the Bank of British West Africa were taking money to the State Bank when they were suddenly held up by the gangsters, who emptied their revolvers into them, wounding all three. The European was shot through the thigh and head, though not dangerously hurt, while the two natives were only slightly wounded.

Seizing the cash, the bandits jumped into a motor car, the engine of which had been left running, and made off at a furious pace, keeping up a fusillade of shots to cover their flight.

Police in cars and on motor cycles immediately set off in hot pursuit, but the bandits got clear away.

PLACARD ON A MOTOR CAR

A CLERGYMAN'S MISTAKE

The Rev. George Henry Dymock, vicar of St. Beds, Bristol, was fined 40s. at the Mansion House, London, yesterday, for driving a motor car in London mainly for the purpose of advertising.

An alternative summons accusing him of carrying a placard by way of advertisement was dismissed.

He did not appear, but Captain Lewis pleaded guilty on his behalf.

A police constable said that there was on the front mudguard of the car a placard with the words: "Line up with Litvinov—we don't think." At the back was a placard stating: "We want Mosley," and there was a panel on the rear door consisting of the Fascist shield, with the letters "B.U.F." written across it, and below the words: "British Union of Fascists."

Mr. Dymock, the constable added, said that he was "merely doing this to advertise the movement—just propaganda." He did not think he was doing wrong.

Captain Lewis said that the vicar's was a bona-fide mistake.

In a letter he expressed regret, and said that he had broken the law unwittingly. He withdrew at once when the constable requested him.

"In times of national crisis," he wrote, "I understood that the City Fathers would take a lenient view of breaches of this bylaw. My sole purpose was not advertisement, but trying to keep this country out of war."

The Lord Mayor said that he would take a lenient view of the offence, but he could not pass it over altogether.

MINE EXPLOSION VICTIMS

IMPRESSIVE SCENES AT FUNERALS

Impressive scenes were witnessed in Darton, near Barnsley, yesterday, when six victims of the explosion at North Gawber colliery were buried in the churchyard. Each cortege was headed by a large number of miners, workers and representatives of local organisations, and several thousand people gathered near the church.

Miners on their way home from work stood with uncovered heads as the coffins passed, and the blinds of almost every house in the villages of Mapplewell, Darton and Stonecross were drawn. Nursing sisters comforted many women who were distressed almost to a point of collapse.

Sir William Sutherland, managing director of the firm which owns the colliery, walked in front of each sad procession in the churchyard, and with him was Mr. Herbert Smith, President of the Yorkshire Miners' Association.

The Bishop of Wakefield (Dr. J. B. Seaton), who took the Service, spoke of the great debt we owed to those who worked in the mines. When disasters occurred, he said, taking terrible toll of life and causing untold suffering, we ought to be anxious to repay in every way we could those who risked their lives, not only earning their livelihood, but in the service they rendered to the community.

Two other victims were buried yesterday at Monkbretton, and the remaining funerals take place to-day.

HEAD PAINS . . . . . NERVE EXHAUSTION

REBUILDS GOOD HEALTH!

"I know the wonderful difference the return of happy vigour makes to those afflicted with nerve strain, as I am sure I would have collapsed through the agony of nerve pains in the head, and other nerve troubles, if it had not been for Phosferine. Everything I tried was useless until a friend advised me to try Phosferine, and so I found the right remedy. A few doses of Phosferine relieved and steadied my nerves, and restored drooping energy until I feel I look better than ever before. It is invaluable for rebuilding good health in times of strain and stress, and splendid for creating an appetite and makes one feel full of holiday energy."

Miss A. Willson, 11, South Preston Terrace, Albion Rd., North Shields.

IRISH NEWS IN BRIEF

Boyle Show.—Mr. E. Callaghan, Knockleigha, Ballina, County Mayo, won first prize in the class for four-year-old hunters at the recent Boyle Show.

* * * * *

Travelled Without Ticket.—Thomas Tighe, St. Mel's terrace, Athlone, was at Athlone Court fined 10s. and costs for travelling to Dublin by train without a ticket.

* * * * *

A Crannog Axe.—The first crannog axe, made of iron, ever to be found in County Wicklow, dating from about the ninth century, was discovered in Ballymanus Wood, Glenealy, by Mr. William Wiley, and has been sent to the National Museum.

* * * * *

Civic Guard Barrack.—A new Civic Guard barrack has been completed at Dennehy's Cross, in the suburbs of Cork, and was yesterday formally handed over to the force. It provides accommodation for half a dozen men. It replaces a barrack burned fourteen years ago.

* * * * *

Butcher Fined.—Patrick Duddy, butcher, 37 Waterloo street, was fined £3, with £1 costs, at Derry yesterday, charged with selling mince steak which contained a quantity of sulphur dioxide, a preservative not allowed in the case of mince.

* * * * *

Body Washed Ashore.—The body of John Diver (20), of Ballyfoughlin, one of the victims of the double drowning accident in South-West Donegal on September 1, was washed ashore yesterday at Darney, near Bruckless, beside the place where the tragedy occurred. An inquest was held by Dr. O'Sullivan, Deputy Coroner, and a verdict of "found drowned" was returned.

* * * * *

Convicted 117 Times.—When Lizzie McCallion, of no fixed address, was charged at Derry yesterday with vagrancy, it was stated that there were 117 previous convictions against her, including 40 for vagrancy. She was sentenced to three months' imprisonment and ordered to find bail to keep the peace, or, in default, two further months.

* * * * *

Child Killed by 'Bus.—A verdict of "Accidental death" was returned at the inquest which was held in Coleraine on John Lamont (6), son of John Lamont, a Borough Council employé. The child was knocked down by a motor 'bus. It was stated that the child had run out from behind a breadvan in front of the 'bus, the wheel of which passed over his head. The jury exonerated Victor Simpson, the driver of the 'bus, from all blame.

* * * * *

Cheap Beef.—At the Leitrim Board of Health meeting yesterday, among the tenders accepted for the half-yearly contracts was one from Mr. Patrick McGowan, Manorhamilton, for best boiling beef and roast at 2½d. per pound, to be supplied to the County Home and hospitals at Manorhamilton. The tender of Mr. Michael Malone, Drumshambo, was accepted for the supply of best boiling mutton at 4½d. per pound.

* * * * *

Road Accident.—A collision occurred near Santry, County Dublin, last night between a Rolls-Royce, belonging to Mrs. Margaret Moyna, Sandymount, Dundalk, who was driving, and a sand lorry owned by Thomas Ennis, Main street, Baldoyle. Mrs. Moyna was accompanied by Mrs. Beatrice Compton and her daughter, Miss Katherine Compton, of South America, who are on a visit to this country. Mrs. Compton and her daughter suffered from shock.

* * * * *

Fianna Fail Club's Reinstatement.—Last June Carrick-on-Shannon Fianna Fail Club refused to hold its annual collection until the Government introduced legislation for the benefit of town tenants. The National Executive of Fianna Fail at Dublin expelled the club. It has now been decided to hold the collection on Sunday, September 29, on condition that the club as registered is re-instated to the registered list of cumaina in Ireland, and that the desired bill be introduced.

* * * * *

Alleged Intent to Defraud.—What was described as an extraordinary case came before the magistrates at Derry yesterday, when Francis Carlin, Nelson street, was charged with obtaining various sums of money from Eileen Curran with intent to defraud. The sums of money mentioned amounted to over £70, and there was a second charge of stealing shop furniture and fittings, a range, delph, and other utensils, value for £30. Mr. John Tracy, for the defendant, said that when the case came to be tried it would be found to be an extraordinary one. The accused man was remanded on bail.

* * * * *

Rent Arrears.—At the South Cork Board of Health meeting yesterday—Mr. R. Daly presiding—the Local Government Department wrote pointing out that arrears of rents in certain areas had increased, while in the remaining districts the collection could not be regarded as satisfactory. The letter intimated that the Minister intended to review the general state of the rent collection at the close of the present half-year, and suggested that all collectors be notified. The Secretary said that he had sent a copy of the Department's letter to all the rent collectors, and urged them to speed up their collection.

COST OF LIVING IN GREAT BRITAIN

The average level of retail prices in Great Britain at August 31 was approximately 43 per cent. above the level of July, 1914. This percentage was the same as at August 1, 1935, and at September 1, 1934. For food only, the corresponding percentages at these three dates were 25, 26, and 26 respectively.

HORSES IN DEMAND

BANAGHER GREAT FAIR

PURCHASES FOR SWISS GOVERNMENT

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BANAGHER, Monday.

TO-DAY, the official date of the big horse fair, the town presented a quite dull appearance. There were only a few buyers present, and there was no business of any importance transacted, the principal buyers having left on Saturday evening. All day on Saturday the horse fair was in progress, but the number of horses on offer was about 40 per cent. less than last year, and the horse sales virtually ended on Saturday evening. Many people who arrived this morning, after travelling long distances with their horses were disappointed to find the fair over, and left again for their homes.

On Saturday there was a good demand for strong agricultural horses and troopers at prices ranging from £10 to £15 better than in 1934. There were a good number of buyers present, and trade was lively.

Mr. P. Mahon, Clonfert, sold a four-year-old hunter for £40 to Mr. White, Liffey Bank, Dublin; Mr. Thomas Hernon, Cooldery sold a five-year-old trained hunter for £45, and Mr. William Kelly, Lusmagh, got £55 for a four-year-old colt by Carl Ross from Mr. J. White, Dublin. Mr. P. Fahy, Eyrecourt, sold a five-year-old trooper for £35, and Mr. D. Kelly, Gloster, Banagher, got £30 for a strong working horse.

Mr. John Seery, Doone, Athlone, got £35 for a six-year-old mare from Mr. Quinn, Clones; Mr. J. Kelly, Banagher, sold a working horse for £20, and a fifteen-months-old filly for £12. Mr. P. Hogan, Banagher, got £22 10s. for a two-year-old colt; Mr. Andrew Grimes, Knockbarron, Birr, got £22 10s. for a trooper, and Mr. James Burns, Killaun, Birr, got the same price for a four-year-old working mare.

Among the dealers who made large purchases were:—Mr. H. Brennan, Castleblaney, troopers, £20 to £30; J. White, Dublin, for the Swiss Government, riding horses, £40 to £50; Mr. Murphy, Waterford, for Swiss Government, £45 to £50; Mr. T. Driscoll, Bandon, bought a string of expensive horses; Mr. Parkhill, Dublin, got a good number of high-priced riding horses; Mr. McIntee, Clones, paid from £20 to £30 for strong agricultural horses; Mr. B. Hamilton, Smythborough, bought useful farm horses at from £15 to £20. Yearlings and one and a half-year-olds more than doubled 1934 prices.

GIRL FOUND INJURED ON RAILWAY

The red-haired girl, who was found injured on the railway-line at Haywards Heath, Sussex, late on Sunday night was identified yesterday as Rose Brown, aged eighteen. She had been employed as a barmaid at a hotel in White street, Moorfields, London, for a fortnight, and went to Worthing on Sunday to see a friend.

A reporter was told at the hotel that Miss Brown was a refined well-educated girl. She came to the hotel with good references, and previously during the summer had been employed as a waitress at a café in Worthing. "Yesterday she went to Worthing to meet a friend of hers. When she left she seemed happy enough. Rose told me that her mother was dead, and that her father lived in Jersey. I believe her sister is a schoolmistress at Bath." Miss Brown is suffering from severe injuries to her head and feet. One foot was crushed.

FINANCIAL

Lombard street was quiet. Gold fell to 140s. 5d. per oz., and £176,000 was sold.—(Page 3.)

A Fine Speech

By far the best and most sincere speech that has been made at Geneva for many a long day was delivered yesterday by Mr. Eamon de Valera, President of the Free State Executive Council. Once previously Mr. de Valera electrified the members of the Assembly of the League by a strikingly unorthodox address as its President; but his remarks yesterday deserve to be broadcast throughout the civilised world. In all fairness to the other statesmen at Geneva, it must be admitted that President de Valera is one of the few men in the Assembly who could afford to make such a forthright speech. Representing this little country, which has no direct interest in Continental affairs, he is able to say things which many others might like to say, but they dare not face the political unpopularity that would follow. Nevertheless, while in one sense President de Valera spoke yesterday without any political responsibility, in another he showed an exceedingly high sense of his responsibilities as a member of the Assembly; and, if all the other representatives of small nations should speak with such courage and sincerity, the League of Nations would be in a very different position to-day. On the last occasion when he addressed the Assembly President de Valera charged the League with infidelity to its own ideals. During the interval his charges, unhappily, have been proved more than once. The League, instead of being an institution outside and above the turmoil of world politics, has allowed itself to be made the tool of self-seeking intriguers. The high ideals which were preached sixteen years ago by the late President Wilson, and to which most of the other statesmen of the time subscribed, have been swamped in a sea of cynicism. As President de Valera said, the cynic to-day has become our teacher. Men seem to have forgotten the horrors of the world war, although millions of Europe's citizens still bear its scars in their souls as well as in their bodies. Nations are preparing feverishly for another struggle. Those who feel that they were wronged sixteen years ago are determined to recover what they lost, while those who happened to be on the winning side are equally determined to retain what they won.

"To be thrown into enmity to those with whom we desire friendship, and to oppose those whom we admire—what could be a more melancholy fate? That . . . . is the price that we may be called upon to pay for collective security. It is a hard price, but it is worth it." In these words Mr. de Valera epitomised the present situation. Italy has challenged the conscience of mankind by her brutal resolve to annihilate a small, independent nation solely for the purposes of her own aggrandisement. Her many friends in the world have done everything in their power to bring Signor Mussolini to reason. The Great Powers have gone so far as virtually to offer Italy concessions in Abyssinia which are not theirs to offer, knowing that the Negus is prepared to go to almost any lengths to save his land from the scourge of war; but Signor Mussolini will not listen to them. Nothing less than the complete political and military control of Abyssinia will satisfy him; and the Negus never will agree to such an exorbitant demand. Mr. de Valera, in these circumstances, told the Assembly yesterday that, "if the sovereignty of the weakest" is not to be respected, the League is useless. "If the Covenant is not observed as a whole for all and by all, there is no Covenant." In short, the League must either take steps to protect Abyssinia or cease to exist as a power in the world. Mr. de Valera gave a very definite pledge concerning the Free State's attitude. This country, he said, had entered into the obligations of the Covenant by its own choice, and without compulsion. It would fulfil those obligations in the letter and the spirit. "We have given our word," said the President, "and we shall keep it. For few other nations will the choice that may confront us to-morrow be more severe." If these words had been uttered last week by M. Laval, we are convinced that Signor Mussolini by this time would have mended his hand in North-East Africa. The French Premier, however, was forced by circumstances to speak in a manner which committed him finally to nothing, whereas the Irishman, free from any such political trammels, was able to speak from his heart.

Political life sometimes produces quaint paradoxes, and there must have been those among Mr. de Valera's audience at Geneva yesterday who wondered at his words. By a curious trick of circumstance, the representative of the Irish Free State has become the most fervent supporter of the British cause. But for the stand that was taken originally by Mr. Anthony Eden, and afterwards by Sir Samuel Hoare, there is not the least doubt that Italy would have had her way in Abyssinia, and that the League of Nations would have turned a blind eye to the flagrant ravishment of its Covenant. Britain, however, gave the rest of the nations a strong lead, and nobody at Geneva has spoken so strongly in her favour as Mr. de Valera. It has been said not only in Italy, but also in this country, that Britain's defence of Abyssinia is dictated entirely by her imperial interests—in other words, that she is thinking not of the Ethiopians but of herself. Contemptible as this suggestion is, it has gained a certain amount of credence among the ill-informed and those who always are ready to defame the British people. We rejoice that almost for the first time in modern history—certainly for the first time since August, 1914—Nationalist Ireland in this matter has ranged herself alongside Great Britain. After all, it is the natural alignment. Ireland and England have identical ideals of liberty and justice. Most of the trouble between them in the past has been due to misunderstanding rather than to any fundamental difference of outlook, and it is nothing less than a tragedy that at the present crisis in world affairs, when international solidarity is so urgently to be desired, there still should be friction between Dublin and London. Mr. de Valera told the Assembly at Geneva yesterday that it was "with feelings of intense joy" that the Irish people found themselves restored again as "a separate, recognised member of the European family." Does he give no credit whatever to Britain for that restoration? His speech at Geneva proves that he is a man of big mind: is he not big enough to realise that Britain desires nothing more fervently than his friendship?

Agriculture in England

"The adventure of taking a farm nowadays," says Mr. L. F. Easterbrook in the Daily Telegraph, "involves the working out of many problems that barely existed five years ago. Then," he says,

> "It was little more than a question of buying the stock and growing the crops suited to the district, with the traditional implements that included nothing newer than tractors and hay-sweeps. To-day equipment is being bought that falls more into the category of processing and marketing."

Fruit-growers, he points out, have their own gas stores and grading sheds; market-gardeners have plants for the manufacture of artificial rain; many corn-growers have drying plants; dairy-farmers cool their milk by means of elaborate apparatus. Equipment of this kind, naturally, demands very considerable expenditure, and is denied to all but the "largest" farmers. Herein, says Mr. Easterbrook, lies an opportunity for the rural landowner "to come forward and reassume his old rôle of leader in the countryside." Let the owner provide the elaborate plant for the use of his tenants, who will pay for the service. Unfortunately, English landowners show themselves increasingly reluctant to provide capital for the improvement of their estates, when death duties threaten the very existence of those estates; and Mr. Easterbrook pleads that the Government might play its part by the exempting from death duties of capital invested in agricultural land and equipment. He prefers this course—action by the landowners—to its alternative, which is co-operative ownership of the equipment by a number of farmers. The trouble about co-operation, in his view, is that not everybody has neighbours who would be willing or desirable co-operators. Moreover, after the succession of lean years which has afflicted English agriculture, there are not so many farmers who could lay their hands readily upon the money for even a share in the purchase of expensive equipment. Mr. Easterbrook's plea for the return of the landowner to an active concern with his estate is interesting; but the interest is chiefly academic for the Saorstát, where large estates are declining in number, and soon may have ceased to exist. Yet it is a fact that agriculture to-day—even in our land of small holdings—demands new methods and new machinery. If Mr. de Valera's tillage policy is maintained, it may reach a point where economy will demand the scrapping of the old, traditional, unscientific agriculture, and the adoption of new and more elaborate processes. Then this problem of machinery will loom large. How will it be answered? Will the principle of co-operation be revived and expanded, or—Heaven forfend!—will the Government be compelled to find some new solution, based upon subsidy?

Dublin's Pictures.

To-day the Dublin Corporation honours a man who has not only done honour to Ireland, but has made a strong claim on Dublin's gratitude. It is fitting, indeed, that Sir John Lavery should be made a Freeman of the city. He holds a place in the front rank of modern European painters—that fact alone would entitle him to recognition in his own country—and his generous action in giving a large number of his pictures to the Dublin Municipal Gallery ought to be marked in some formal manner. The gift is all the more valuable because it is genuinely needed. Dublin has not so fine a collection of modern paintings as is owned by some other cities, and those people who have worked hard to add to her present store will be glad to see it enriched by some of the best and most representative work of a famous Irish artist. Sir John Lavery's gift, moreover, comes at a time when the acquisition of Charlemont House has given Dublin a centre worthy of its collection, and when interest in modern art has definitely been stimulated. The public, since the new building was opened, has been given easier access to the pictures, and has taken advantage of it. This fact, indeed, is not without its drawbacks, and for some time past there have been rumours that the collection in the Municipal Art Gallery has been visited not only by people who take a genuine interest in painting, but by a less desirable element. Can it be true that pictures have been injured by visitors who are either irresponsible, or have come to do wanton damage, and is it possible that the supervision of the Gallery is not strong enough to prevent such things from happening? It is most disturbing to think that valuable works of art should be exposed to the mercies of people who care nothing for them, and we hope, for the sake both of Sir John Lavery's gift and of the other paintings, that all possible steps will be taken to protect the Gallery from interference.

Post Office Complaint

In England thousands of holiday-makers now are returning home to find a note from the Post Office in their letter-boxes, which states that letters, which the postman has been unable to deliver, can be collected at the nearest branch office. Far from appreciating this service, however, the public is complaining of the high-handed methods of the Post Office in the matter of these "undeliverable" letters. In the first place, it is alleged that the margin of time for attempted delivery is too short. After the postman has made three attempts to deliver a letter, and failed every time to find anyone at home, he then is allowed to return the letter to the Post Office on the grounds that it is "undeliverable." Unfortunately, however, a busy postman may make his three calls on three consecutive rounds, and thus fail to find any householder who is absent from his house even for one week-end. Secondly, before letters can be recovered, a "search fee" of 3d. must be paid, or 7d., if the mail is to be delivered by special messenger. The complaint here is that it is the obligation of the Post Office to deliver mail, and that the general public should not be compelled to pay for something to which it is entitled free of cost. Lastly, the time allowed before returning the letters to the senders is needlessly short, in the opinion of many householders. The Post Office must keep a letter for three days; but if at the end of that time it is still "undeliverable," it then may be returned. Under this system those who are absent from home for more than a week-end are in danger of being deprived of all their letters, no matter how important or how urgent. To this attack the Post Office has made strong reply. An official explained that letters can be retained indefinitely by the Post Office, or re-addressed to those who are on holiday—all free of charge. If, however, the public refuses to avail itself of these facilities, and insists upon attempted delivery, it is only fair that it should suffer some inconvenience and additional expense.

SEAN O'CASEY IN DUBLIN

A VISIT TO THE ABBEY

Mr. Sean O'Casey, whose play, "The Silver Tassie," gave rise to such a controversy when produced at the Abbey Theatre some weeks ago, is at present in Dublin. He attended the Abbey Theatre last night—for the first time in many years—and saw the performance of the new play by Mr. F. R. Higgins, "A Deuce O' Jacks." His presence seems to mark the end of the quarrel between him and the directors of the Abbey Theatre, following their original rejection of "The Silver Tassie." Since that time, Mr. O'Casey has been living in London, where he wrote his latest play, "Within the Gates."

When interviewed, Mr. O'Casey was not inclined to talk much about himself. "I am over in Dublin for a holiday," he said, "and I don't know how long I shall be here. It may be for three days, or for three weeks." As regards the reception given to his play, he would say little, except that he was not impressed by the arguments which had been brought up against it. "I can take Father Gaffney and the other people who share his views," he said, "to places within two minutes' walk of the Pro-Cathedral, and they would agree with me that they are not places to be sentimentalised over."

MR. WINSTON CHURCHILL'S DAUGHTER MARRIED

Mrs. John Bailey, formerly Miss Diana Churchill, eldest daughter of Mr. Winston Churchill, was married at noon yesterday at St. Ethelburga's Church, Bishopsgate, London, to Mr. Duncan Sandys, M.P. for Norwood. The bride desired that the wedding should be as quiet as possible, and the hour was known only when the bridegroom arrived at the church, soon after 11 o'clock.

At the bye-election in Norwood this year Mrs. Bailey worked in opposition to Mr. Sandys, supporting the Independent candidate, who was sponsored by her brother, Mr. Randolph Churchill.

The honeymoon will be spent in Ireland.

WEATHER FORECAST

COURT AND PERSONAL

The King and Queen were accompanied by the Duke and Duchess of York and Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret when they attended morning Service at Crathie Church on Sunday, where, despite torrents of rain, hundreds of people assembled round the church to watch the arrival of the Royal party. In the afternoon the King and Queen motored to Mar Lodge, where they took tea with Prince and Princess Arthur of Connaught, who are entertaining this week in celebration of their son's coming of age, and are giving a dance to-morrow night.

Yesterday the Prince of Wales flew to Debrezin, and spent a considerable time inspecting the celebrated horse and cattle ranches, and returned to Budapest by aeroplane. His Royal Highness left yesterday for Vienna, where he will spend a couple of days.

Their Majesties' dinner guests on Saturday night included Lady Constance Butler, Commander and Mrs. Du Cane, Major C. D. and Mrs. Gilmour, Lieutenant D. MacM. Rose, and Second Lieutenant H. C. Young.

The King and Queen have sent a gift of grapes to the Royal Hospital and Home for Incurables at Putney, of which they are patrons.

The King of Rumania will start shortly for an official visit to Paris and London.

The Duke of Wellington, the Marquis de la Gandara, Lord and Lady Claud Hamilton, the Hon. Henry and Mrs. FitzAlan-Howard, Sir William and Lady McClure, and Mde. Felix Guépin have been the guests of Sir Kay and Lady Muir at Blair Drummond.

The Earl and Countess of Lytton have arrived in Ireland on a visit to the Earl and Countess of Erne at Crom Castle, Co. Fermanagh. The Marchioness of Waterford, who has been spending a few days in London, has returned to Curraghmore. Lord and Lady Inchiquin are returning to London to-day from France, and are expected at Dromoland Castle, Co. Clare, this week. Lord Rathdonnell, who has been for a foreign cruise, has returned to Lisnavagh, Co. Carlow. General Sir William Hickie is joining the Marquess of Headfort's shooting party at Headfort House, Kells, this week.

The Comtesse de Brantes, who has been visiting her parents, the Earl and Countess of Granard, left Dublin yesterday for England. Lady Beatrice Kerr-Clarke left Dublin for London. The Countess of Huntingdon is among the recent arrivals at Harrogate, where Lord Harlech is now taking the cure. Colonel Lathan V. Stewart and Lady Doris Blacker have returned from Scotland, and will take up residence in London early next month.

A marriage has been arranged, and will take place at Christ Church, Bray, on 26th September, at 1.30 p.m., between William J., only child of Mr. and Mrs. J. Evans, "Rosbeg," Greystones, and Lilian D., second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Leeson, "Ballyman House," Bray.

The engagement is announced between the Rev. Robert C. M. Mathers, M.A., only son of the Rev. James Mathers, O.B.E., B.D., and of Mrs. Mathers, The Manse, Rosewell, Midlothian, and Sheelagh Mackenzie, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Bonner, 32 Oaklands Park, Ballsbridge, Dublin.

The engagement is announced between Commandant Patrick J. Quinn, The Air Corps, Baldonnel, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Quinn, Clenagh, Newmarket-on-Fergus, Co. Clare, and Dorothy, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Darling, 26 Hannaville Park, Terenure.

THE FREE STATE'S ATTITUDE

MR. DE VALERA'S SPEECH AT GENEVA

COVENANT OBLIGATIONS TO BE FULFILLED

DRAFT REPORT OF COMMITTEE OF FIVE

THE Irish Free State will fulfil its obligations under the Covenant of the League of Nations in the letter and the spirit. "We have given our word, and we shall keep it."

This declaration was made yesterday by Mr. de Valera, President of the Executive Council, in his address to the Assembly of the League of Nations.

Were adjustments never to be made but at the expense of the weak, he asked, and proceeded:

"Why cannot the Peace Conference, which will meet in Europe when the next conflict has decimated the nations and disaster and exhaustion has tamed some of them into temporary submission—why cannot this Conference be convened now, when calm reason might have a chance to bring the nations into friendly co-operation and a lasting association of mutual help?"

The Sub-Committee of Five, which is endeavouring to find a solution of the Italo-Abyssinian dispute, completed the draft of its report last night. It will be considered by the Big Five this afternoon.

For the moment nothing definite has emerged, says Reuter, except that the sovereign rights of Ethiopia are safeguarded. It is reported that it takes into consideration a settlement based on the Liberia protocol, by which certain districts adjoining the Italian frontiers would be supervised by Italian Commissioners.

The members have worked in complete harmony, and their recommendation is unanimous.

THE LEAGUE'S RESPONSIBILITY

I come to this tribune, said Mr. de Valera, with a feeling of deep sadness. The speakers who preceded me doubtless have had the same feeling; for no one can avoid being affected by the contrast between the high ideals and lofty purpose enunciated from this platform in former years and the atmosphere of despair which surrounds it to-day.

From this tribunal representative statesmen of successive Governments have spoken to the listening peoples, holding up to them the vision of a better world, inspiring and leading them on to noble efforts, telling them that the highest aspirations of their souls can be reached, urging that old animosities and egoistic selfishness should be laid aside, promising that by loyal co-operation, first in the smaller things, the nations would be led to realise that the highest good of each was best secured by devoted service to the common interests of all.

To-day, however, the cynic is our teacher. He is whispering to each of us, telling us that man in the long run is only a beast, that his duty is determined and his destiny ruled by selfishness and passion, that force is his weapon, that victory rests with the most brutal, and that it is only the fool who credits such dreams as were uttered here.

BETRAYAL

Yesterday we were told that war as an instrument of aggressive national policy had been outlawed, our thoughts were busy with the possibility of a union of Europe.

To day, before the mangled bodies of the youth of this Continent have yet been mercifully assimilated with the clay, before the anguished hearts of countless mothers have even got a respite, we are here awaiting the result of an eleventh-hour attempt to postpone the opening of a conflict which may set the peoples of the world mutilating and destroying each other again, awaiting and expecting little but the relief that must come in exchanging the piteous, melancholy uncertainty of to-day for the steady resolve and active purpose of to-morrow; to be thrown into a position of enmity with those with whom we wish to be on terms of friendship, to have to oppose those whom we admire and would welcome an occasion to serve—what more heart-rending alternative can there be to the abandonment of duty and the betrayal of our deepest convictions and of words solemnly given?

That is, however, the alternative before us, and that is the price we may be called upon to pay for that common security without which the peace we need can never be realised.

A HARD PRICE

It is a hard price, but harder still and more terrible is the future in store for us if we should fail to be ready to pay it. The final test of the League and all that it stands for has come. Our conduct in this crisis will determine whether the League of Nations is worthy to survive or whether it is better to let it lapse and disappear and be forgotten.

Make no mistake, if on any pretext whatever we were to permit the sovereignty of even the weakest State amongst us to be unjustly taken away, the whole foundation of the League would crumble into dust. If the pledge of security is not universal, if there be picking and choosing, and jockeying and favouritism; if one country is to be given a free hand while another is restrained, then it is far better that the old system of alliances should return and that each nation should do what it can to prepare for its own defence.

Without universality the League can be only a snare. If the Covenant is not observed as a whole for all and by all then there is no Covenant.

FREE STATE'S CLAIM

I have to speak of the attitude of my own nation in this crisis. The Irish nation has no imperialistic ambitions. Although a mother country we covet no colonies and have no dominions. Our sole claim is that the ancestral home of our people, unmistakably delimited by the ocean, should belong to us. We make no demands but those founded upon justice. We claim the right to order our own life in our own way, and select our own governmental institutions without interference, prepared to admit for all other nations in their respective territories the same rights which we claim for ourselves in ours.

One of the oldest of the European nations, it is with feelings of intense joy that after several centuries of attempted assimilation by a neighbouring people we find ourselves restored again as a separate recognised member of the European family to which we belong. By our own choice and without compulsion we entered into the obligations of the Covenant. We shall fulfil these obligations in the letter and in the spirit. We have given our word and we shall keep it; for few nations will the test which may confront us to-morrow be more severe. May the good God keep this cup of bitterness from all of us.

Why cannot the nations put into enterprises of peace the energies they are prepared to squander in the futility and frightfulness of war? Yesterday there were no finances to give the workless the opportunity of earning their bread; to-morrow money unlimited will be found to provide for the manufacture of instruments of destruction. Why can we not in a spirit of justice deal with wrongs when we perceive them?

Not every demand for change deserves to be listened to, it is true; but must we await until the wronged have risen up in armed revolt before we grant to them the redress to which we know they are entitled? Why, if the problems are economic and it is the fear of withholding essential raw material that is causing alarm, why cannot these questions and their relation to colonial possessions be discussed now?

Or will our conservatism, the natural philosophy of those who have and are concerned only to retain—will this conservatism give its consent and deem the time ripe only when the slaughter has begun? Are adjustments never to be made but at the expense of the weak?

Why cannot the Peace Conference which will meet in Europe when the next conflict has decimated the nations and disaster and exhaustion have tamed some of them into temporary submission—why cannot this Conference be convened now when calm reason might have the chance to bring the nations into friendly co-operation and lasting association of mutual help?

UNJUST ARRANGEMENTS

Why can we not at least place this League of Nations on a stable foundation? Why can we not free the fundamental instrument of the League from its association with political arrangements which are universally recognised as unjust? Why can we not endeavour to forge an international instrument not merely for settling international disputes when they arise, but for removing in advance the cause of those disputes?

The solidarity of which we had happily such a manifestation within the last few days is an earnest that the goodwill of the nations can in the last resource be depended upon for the fulfilment of the obligations into which they have freely entered. Will that goodwill not be all the more active and effective in a system of collective security in which the legitimate national requirements of States are provided for, and their loyalty to the system thereby doubly assured?

Such goodwill would have given us the protocol ten years ago. But ten years ago there was no sense of impending calamity, no crisis in the intensity of which we could be welded to a common purpose of self preservation. Such a crisis is here now. May God grant us the will and the wisdom to avail ourselves of it!

CONGESTION IN EAST AFRICA

ITALIAN ARMY'S DIFFICULTIES

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

ALEXANDRIA, Monday.

The overcrowding of troops is presenting a serious problem to General Emilio de Bono and the men in charge of operations in Italian East Africa.

In Eritrea something approaching 200,000 Italian soldiers are quartered on a country whose 64,000 square miles normally support only 3,500 Europeans and little over 600,000 natives. In Somalia, which is over three times as big in area and has a population estimated at less than a million, another 100,000 or more troops have to be accommodated. More are arriving every day.

A minimum of foreigners is now permitted to enter the colonies, but the scenes of congestion are vividly described by occasional travellers returning to Egypt from business trips to the coast.

OVERCROWDED PORT

Massawa, the principal port of Eritrea, has quays for about five ships normally. "When I was there," one business man told Reuter, "over 60 vessels, laden with men, munitions and supplies, were jostling one another." The harbour organisation is strained to breaking point.

Conditions in the European quarter of the town, with its limited hotel accommodation, its few stores and "bars," under this influx of men needing food, drink, shelter and entertainment, may easily be imagined.

Natural water, apart from a few rivers, is scarce in both colonies, but with the main supplies being distilled from the sea there is said to be no lack of this essential commodity. The difficulties of provisioning the troops, it is said, are also being overcome by combining the natural resources of the colonies with huge shipments from Europe and elsewhere.

The problem of transport from the coast into the uplands must also be costing the Italians sleepless nights. Under the enormous pressure of traffic on the single railway between Massawa and Asmara, the capital of Eritrea, where Army headquarters are situated, it is not surprising if hitches and confusion sometimes occur.

HEALTH AND MORALE

Under these conditions two of the most serious problems confronting the Italian military authorities are—first, that of preserving the health of their men, and, secondly, that of keeping up their morale. While the most elaborate medical precautions are being taken to the former end, involving careful attention to diet and clothing, all the resources of propaganda and patriotic exhortation are being called upon, it is said, to the latter.

But the weeks of waiting—far from home, and under unwonted living conditions, with very little happening and limited means of entertainment—are putting a severe strain on the good spirits with which most of the troops started out. While the expected outbreak of hostilities would remove many of the causes of dispiritedness, the Italian Army Command, it is said, is prepared to have to direct more and more of its attention to this problem.

PRESIDENT DE VALERA.

WHITE RACES' DUTY

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

DURBAN, Monday.

Commenting on the recent speech by the Union delegate at Geneva, the Natal Advertiser says that Mr. Te Water uttered a grave warning which ought to be heeded by those who take upon themselves to shape the fortunes of the world.

This warning, it adds, should not be neglected by those to whom to-day is committed the care of native and backward peoples.

"The white man must remember, be he Briton, Italian or South African, that the remaining independence of the black man is not the only thing we are called upon to defend. He looks to us to secure to him something more valued still than sovereignty—justice, compassion and help on the hard road from barbarism to the light. We hope that Mr. Te Water, on behalf of his Government, remembers the mote in our eye when he is busy talking about the beam in the eye of Italy."

A CANCELLED CONTRACT

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BUENOS AIRES, Monday.

Reports that Italy had recently transferred a large order for frozen meat from Argentina to Brazil because of Argentine criticism of Italian policy towards Abyssinia are deprecated here.

It is stated that the reasons for this transference were economic and political, in view of the fact that Brazil is not a member of the League, and also that at present Italy is building three submarines for that country.

It is pointed out, however, that Argentina stands by the common declaration of the American States of 1932 pledging themselves not to recognise future territorial conquests by war. This attitude has nothing to do with the Italo-Abyssinian dispute, having been inspired by the war between Bolivia and Paraguay in the Chaco.

ASSURANCE TO EGYPT

BRITISH PROMISE TO CONSULT

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

ALEXANDRIA, Monday.

The British Government have given the Egyptian Government an assurance that they will enter into consultation with them regarding any developments of the international situation which may closely concern this country. This fact is made known in an official communiqué issued this evening by Tewfik Nessim Pasha, the Egyptian Prime Minister.

The official announcement states that since the beginning of the present international complication friendly conversations have been taking place between Nessim Pasha, on behalf of the Egyptian people, and Sir Miles Lampson, the British High Commissioner, as well as Mr. Kelly, who is now Acting High Commissioner, concerning the effect which the development of the international situation may have on Egypt.

As the result of these conversations Mr. Kelly, in the name of the British Government, has presented Nessim Pasha with the following communiqué:—

"His Majesty's Government are fully alive to the interests of Egypt and the anxieties felt there at the present moment. The Prime Minister may rest assured that if the occasion arises His Majesty's Government will keep the Egyptian Government informed, and enter into consultation with them regarding any developments of the international situation which may closely concern Egypt."

WILL FOLLOW BRITAIN

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

SALISBURY, Monday.

"In this matter of applying sanctions we shall follow the course adopted by Britain," declared Mr. G. M. Huggins, the Prime Minister, explaining to-day Southern Rhodesia's attitude towards the Italo-Abyssinian dispute.

FOR SOMALILAND

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

L'ORIENT, Monday.

The new dispatch boat, Iberville, sailed to-day on her maiden voyage through the Eastern Mediterranean and the Red Sea to French Somaliland.

She is a vessel of 1,969 tons, equipped with three 138 mm. guns, four 37 mm. anti-aircraft guns, and six machine guns, and carries a seaplane. Her radius of

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BERLIN, Monday.

HIS own authority over the Army was one of the points stressed by Chancellor Hitler in his final speech to the Nazi Party Congress in Nuremberg to-night. The speech was described as "Hitler's political testament" by Germans who heard it.

The Fuehrer concluded with a remarkable passage, which was greeted with wild cheering. He said:

"I do not know when I shall finally close my eyes, but I do know that the party will continue and will rule over great and small. A leader who is once chosen by the party shall be the master of the party and the chief of the army. If this becomes the basis of Germany, Germany will weather all storms.

"Leaders will come and leaders will die, but Germany will live. The stronger the party the stronger Germany will be. The Army must preserve the power given to Germany and watch over it."

BLIND ACKNOWLEDGMENT

Earlier Herr Hitler said:

"Just when opinions about wars and so on differ, it is doubly necessary that the Army should be under strong leadership. Blind acknowledgment of the party's authority is necessary. Obedience must be the first and foremost law. There is no excuse for any violation. If some bourgeois elements say: 'The leader, Yes—but the party, No,' gentlemen, I say the leader is the party and the party is the leader."

He declared: "Providence intended the Germans to become a nation, but every birth is painful, even the birth of a nation. The democratic state had to be broken up in the face of Jewish Bolshevism. Monarchy and the Christian religion all failed. They were ineffective in warding off these new methods of assault. The fact that other nations have not yet collapsed under democracy does not prove anything except that it only shows how long such a process takes.

RELIGIONS

"Religions have no sense unless they serve the preservation of the living substance of the people.

"Just as the army must educate the entire people along its lines, so the party has the obligation of educating the nation along its lines and to assimilate those who have been selected by Providence for such work.

"The party's task is to provide the leadership and to convert its political conceptions into system, so that it remains for all time to come.

"We are still cleaning up the revolutionary period. The party must see that all become educated in the Nazi ideology, that the best Nazis become party members, and the best party members become leaders of the State."

ONLY SOLDIERS

Hitler cried scornfully: "The economists, professors, artists and clerics will never save Germany from the abyss, but only the political soldiers of our movement.

"Other nations would be glad if they had such a solid basis and such a good political system. The more restless the times the more valuable an organisation that courageously grapples with problems never before tackled. The party had to be regarded as the supreme judge."

Germans who heard the speech point out that this is the first time Herr Hitler has mentioned a successor or referred to the possibility of his no longer being leader of Germany.

There is some speculation as to what impelled Herr Hitler to end the party Congress on this note.

"FAITH HAS COME BACK"

HITLER ADDRESSES TROOPS

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

NUREMBERG, Monday.

An attack by air bombers on a miniature high-power station, which was repulsed by anti-aircraft units, and manœuvres by other mechanised forces, were features of a display of Germany's new armed units to-day. After the manœuvres Chancellor Hitler addressed the troops.

"Soldiers of the new German Army," he said, "for the second time units of the army and navy stand on this field. For the first time they are here under their new military freedom. Every German young man who is regarded as worthy will now join your ranks and will serve with modern arms.

"This service demands sacrifices from every one of you. It demands endurance and the carrying out of obligations. What do all these sacrifices demanded from youth amount to compared with those which were demanded of us and millions of our comrades twenty years ago? The German people in arms broke down because they lost faith in themselves. Faith has now come back again."

JAPAN MURDER PLOT STORY

MANY PERSONS FOR TRIAL

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

TOKYO, Monday.

Details of a remarkable alleged plot two years ago to murder a number of prominent Japanese political, financial and commercial figures are revealed to-day, following the lifting of a ban of silence imposed on the Press. At the same time fifty-four persons accused of attempted insurrection in connection with the affair have been committed for trial.

The conspiracy fell through when, in 1933, sixty-three alleged participants were arrested at the Meiji Shrine Hall, where they had assembled to pray for the success of the coup d'état next day. The signal for it was to be the bombing of the Cabinet from an aeroplane while they were in session. It was planned that, as soon as this occurred, the conspirators would descend on the homes of the intended victims of the plot and murder them.

Fifty-four of the accused have now been committed for trial, charged with attempted insurrection. Five others are charged with attempted murder and arson. Four ot the suspects died during the examination, including the flying officer who, it is alleged, was to bomb the Cabinet as a signal to the other conspirators.

The plot was reported at the time to be that of a reactionary group affiliated to the notorious Black Dragon Society. As soon as the police heard of it they threw heavily armed guards round the official residences of members of the Cabinet. A guard was also stationed round the British Embassy, because it was believed that the group, which was said to be connected with an Indian agitator, was behind the then anti-British campaign in Japan.

NORTH-WEST FRONTIER

THREE BRIGADES ON THE MOVE

TO "IMPOSE TERMS" ON UNRULY TRIBES

THE Government of India, according to official advices received in London, have despatched a force to a point in the Mohmand area on the North-West Frontier, known as Kamalai Valley, with the object of preventing a recurrence of disorders and imposing terms on the Upper Mohmands.

The force consists of three Brigades working in association with the Royal Air Force, under the command of Brigadier C. J. E. Auchinleck. The operations are strictly limited in scope, and it is hoped that they will secure the peace of the Peshawar district and the Indian tribal territory on its borders.

THE UPPER MOHMANDS

The Mohmands are one of the leading tribes on the North-West Frontier. They may roughly be divided into Lower Mohmands, who are known as assured clans, and in receipt of allowances from the Government of India, and Upper Mohmands, who, with the exception of one important clan—the Mitai Musa Khel—are not in receipt of allowances.

The Government of India have been engaged in operations with the Mohmands on more frequent occasions than with any other tribe.

The Government of India constructed in 1933 a road to the head of the Gandab Pass, at the foot of the Nahakki Pass. Afterwards the Government undertook not to extend the road into Upper Mohmand territory, provided that the Upper Mohmands were not guilty of further aggression, and left the Lower Mohmands in peace.

POSTS ATTACKED

This year murders were committed by the nest of outlaws harbouring with the Saffis in the Upper Mohmand country. The Government of India arrested a number of Saffis temporarily residing in administered territory, and held them as hostages to bring pressure on the tribe for the surrender or expulsion of the murderers.

The reply to this action was a descent by Badshah Gul, the eldest son of the Haji of Turangzai, on the Ghandab road, with a force. The road was broken up, and attacks were made on posts actually within the Peshawar district.

In view of the threat created by this hostile force operations began on August 19 with a view to the dispersal of the tribesmen. Since then troops have occupied the Ghandab Valley, and action has been taken in conjunction with the R.A.F.

Considerable opposition was met with from Upper Mohmands.

The operations of British troops are taking place in tribal territory, which, although not administered, is within the international frontier of India. The objective of the troops is limited to the capture of the Nahakki Pass and to the occupation of the Kamalai area.

TANKS BROUGHT INTO ACTION

WOMEN WATCH THE FIGHTING

FROM "THE TIMES" SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

KATSAI, September 16.

In preparation for the advance over the Nahakki Ridge, Brigadier C. J. E. Auchinleck, Officer Commanding the "Moh-Force," visited his front line to-day to examine the situation. The existing front line is on a minor ridge at Shati Khel, a desolate farmhouse set amid a circle of barren peaks, whose heights have been scaled by Scottish, English and Indian troops in establishing picket posts to protect the Gandab road. Your correspondent accompanied Brigadier Auchinleck on his inspection.

As we moved among the troops which were holding the line veiled women on the roof of the fort-like farmhouse watched the desultory fighting between the "Moh-force" and the tribesmen, who are holding Khazana Sar, a peak of 5,000 feet, from which they sniped into the valley below. Their attention had been attracted by a section of light tanks, which proceeded from Katsai camp to the end of the Gandab road to reconnoitre the valley leading to the ridge, preliminary to an advance. The tanks were a new threat to tribal activities, as they are taking part in frontier warfare for the first time. Their sinuous advance along the valley to Yusuf Khel was watched with amazement by the friendly Halimazai, who were working on the road or cultivating their fields.

SCREAMING SHELLS

To counteract sniping by the tribesmen shells screamed over our heads from the 4-in. howitzers of the Fourth Field Brigade at Katsai, whose fire was directed by the British and Indian troops who were holding the neighbouring mountain tops. Their fire raked the Upper Nullahs and the higher slopes of Khazana Sar, dispersing those tribesmen who had moved from the crest, where many were seen in their effort to watch the movements of the tanks.

From where we stood tribesmen could be seen manœuvring for position along the crest of a ridge which is on the right flank of the Nahakki Ridge. They obviously intend to continue the hostilities in spite of the economic pressure which has increased the cost of their ammunition from 2½ rupees for 10 rounds to 4 rupees.

GIRLS DASH FOR SAFETY

BIG FIREWORKS EXPLOSION

FOUR WORKERS IN HOSPITAL

TWENTY girls dashed for safety when a fire, followed by an explosion, broke out at Crane Fireworks Factory, Warmley, near Bristol, yesterday.

Four girls were seriously injured and are in hospital. They are Nelly Brewer (18), North Common, Warmley; Joyce Garland (21), Mildred Gerrish (17), and Vera Gingell (22), all of Tower road, Warmley.

The four girls, with another, Kitty Brokenbrow, were working in a small department known as the finishing shop, when fire broke out. Miss Brokenbrow, who was in charge, gave the alarm, and shouted to them to run for safety.

The four injured girls tried to escape through a door at one end of the shed, when a terrific explosion occurred. They were badly burned about the arms and legs. All the windows in the workshop were blown out, and some hundreds of thousands of fireworks exploded.

FRIGHTENED GIRLS

A woman who lives near the factory said: "I saw smoke rising. Then there was a crackling noise, and a few minutes later about a dozen girls came rushing out of the yard."

Mr. Crane, the proprietor, said: "I have yet to discover what caused the outbreak. It is the first fire we have had since the firm was founded. If the four girls had left by the door indicated by Miss Brokenbrow, they would not have been injured."

About seventy girls are employed at the factory.

Mangotsfield Fire Brigade prevented the flames from spreading to near-by stores of powder and fireworks.

LIKE A MACHINE GUN

Mr. George Arthur Crane, who was in his office about fifty yards from the hut involved at the time of the explosion, told a reporter in a further interview: "We began putting out the flames on the girls' clothing with anything we could lay our hands on. Some of the men dashed into the burning hut to put out the fire. While they were doing this a large store of small sky-rockets began to explode like a machine-gun."

He explained that the huts in which the fireworks are filled are all screened by iron sheeting, and there is a distance of ten yards between each.

Miss Gerrish told a reporter: "When we saw the fire and heard Miss Brokenbrow shout I rushed for the door with the other girls, but as we did so a sheet of flame shot up in front of us. I was the last out, and I thought I should never get through the flames."

The flames were confined to the one hut, and the efforts of employés were so successful that the fire brigade was not called.

It is understood that the usual Board of Trade inquiry will be held into the circumstances of the accident.

Miss Brewer's condition is critical.

FROM "THE TIMES"

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.)

GERMANY AND THE CRISIS

The Times remarks in a leading article to-day:—Herr Hitler's speech to the special meeting of the Reichstag at Nuremberg may not have fulfilled all the expectations of the deputies who were so suddenly summoned together, but our Berlin Correspondent considers that for domestic purposes it was a master stroke of party stage craft, and the one hour session provided speeches by the Fuhrer and General Goering, and three new laws. Henceforward the Swastika flag, till now the emblem of the National Socialist movement, is to be the official flag of the German Reich, and yesterday a Nord Deutscher Lloyd liner duly steamed into Bremerhaven, showing the Swastika at her stern. The other two laws impose severe conditions for full German citizenship, so as to exclude Jews and forbid marriage between Aryans and Jews, or the engagement of German girls as domestic servants in Jewish houses.

The speech of General Goering was a panegyric on his leader. The speech of Herr Hitler himself, much shorter than most of his speeches, was taken up almost entirely with the question of Memel, and was yesterday the occasion of a protest by the Lithuanian delegate in his speech before the Assembly of the League. Many of Herr Hitler's remarks were half-truths, which were, no doubt, well calculated to stir the enthusiasm of his audience, but which carry little conviction to outside observers. The people of German race, who are being handled worse than criminals in a normal State, are supposed to be suffering only because they are Germans and wish to remain Germans. It is, of course, the wish of the three Powers responsible for the Memel Statute, just as much as of the German Government itself, that these Lithuanian subjects of German blood should remain German, and it is not contested by the Lithuanian Government. Similarly, the demand which Herr Hitler makes for Germany that Lithuania should be held by appropriate measures to the fulfilment of signed treaties, is precisely the request which the representatives of the statutory Powers have formally made to the Lithuanian Government. Nor is it true to say that the representations of the responsible Powers in Kovno have been without value and without result. It will not be denied that the Lithuanian Government in the recent past have taken certain measures which by no means seemed to fit into the four corners of the Statute, but there can be little doubt that the recent activity shown by Great Britain, France and Italy has moderated Lithuanian policy during recent weeks.

MALTA "BLACK OUT"

NIGHT AIR EXERCISES BY R.A.F.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

MALTA, Monday.

Night exercises on the lines of the recent manœuvres over London are to be carried out on Wednesday night by the R.A.F. over Malta and Gozo. From 1.40 a.m. to 3 a.m. the islands will be in complete darkness. Ships in harbour will extinguish all lights, and movements of vehicles on land will be prohibited.

"Passage through the entrance is prohibited," adds the announcement.

TWO NEW WAR PERILS

EXCHANGES AT GENEVA

POLAND REPLIES TO RUSSIA

LITHUANIA AND HITLER SPEECH

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

GENEVA, Monday.

THE shadow of new war perils is darkening the scene at Geneva. To-day's proceedings were marked by developments in two quarrels, one between Poland and Russia, and the other between Lithuania and Germany.

A sensation was caused by the terse but outspoken reply made by Colonel Beck, the Polish Foreign Minister, to M. Litvinoff's reference on Saturday to the Germany-Polish non-aggression pact. When M. Litvinoff replied to-day to Colonel Beck all members of the Polish delegation walked out into the lobbies, where they lit cigarettes. This was merely a demonstration of no further significance than that the relations between the two countries are not exactly cordial.

The Lithuanian delegate, M. Lororaitis, read an important statement in the Assembly this afternoon in reply to the reference to Memel made by Herr Hitler in his speech last night.

LITVINOFF CRITICISED

Colonel Beck, in raising the matter of M. Litvinoff's statement regarding the German non-aggression past, said that the speech delivered by M. Litvinoff compelled him to make the following declaration:—

"In certain phrases of his speech, very explicit in their implication, M. Litvinoff felt himself compelled to criticise with manifest prejudice and in a completely arbitrary manner certain diplomatic conventions or instruments entered into by my Government.

"Against such conduct I feel constrained to express emphatic reservations. It is obvious that such expressions of opinion with reference to Polish policy are regarded by my Government with indifference, but as the representative of a founder-member of the League I feel convinced that such a course of conduct is not in accord with the usages ruling in this Assembly and can only prejudice that loyal international understanding which is an indispensable condition of our collaboration."

"UNPROVOKED"

Replying to these remarks, M. Litvinoff said:

"I apologise for speaking before the Assembly in the general discussion for the second time, but I am compelled to do so by the statement of the first delegate of Poland.

"The Soviet delegation was not the only one which, I am sure, felt surprised by the quite unprovoked speech of Colonel Beck replying to my speech, in which neither Poland nor Polish policy had ever been mentioned.

"There are two conceptions of the way to recognise peace—the conception of the collective system and the conception of bilateral pacts. Recently the official representative of a certain Government made a statement in which a preference was expressed for bilateral pacts and the localising of conflict instead of the collective system as a means for ensuring peace. An open discussion of this problem is vital for international co-operation and should do no harm, and there is no more suitable place for it than this Assembly. And when discussing the organisation of peace this political conception must be dealt with.

"Our country is certainly not indifferent to what its neighbours think of its policy. Special care is taken that our foreign policy may be properly understood in other countries, and Poland should certainly do likewise in the interests, we feel, of friendly relations, which is one of the first aims of our own foreign policy."

DISTURBING STATEMENTS

M. Lororaitis, the Lithuanian delegate, in his statement, said:—

"Lithuania has always been, and always will be, on the side of the Powers who are faithfully attached and entirely devoted to the League. This is not a vain word, but the result of our convictions.

"We have always fulfilled our international engagements, and we are always ready to proceed to an exchange of views with regard to our undertakings. We have always followed this course.

"Therefore, it must be recognised that certain statements directed against my country, which are of a nature to disturb the atmosphere of good relations and of collaboration between peoples, are entirely unjustified. My country has faith in the solidarity of peoples under the ægis of the League of Nations.

"We remain serene and confident in the integrity of our honour."

Before the Assembly adjourned for the day Poland, Rumania and Ecuador were elected to the Council. In a declaration to the Assembly the Austrian representatives protested against the present system of election to the Council, and asked what means should be devised to give all members of the League an opportunity of serving.

PROTESTANT SCHOOLS' STRIKE

DUE TO BEGIN TO-DAY

The threatened school strike in Edinburgh as a protest against Catholic children being temporarily accommodated in Protestant schools is due to begin to-day.

The three schools chiefly concerned are situated in Leith, and, if the strike takes place, it is estimated that between 2,000 and 3,000 children will be affected.

Councillor Cormack, leader of the Protestant Action Society, has called for a general strike throughout the city schools, and the Society has arranged to hold six open-air meetings in various districts to-day.

To avoid disturbances, the Society has asked parents not to congregate at the schools.

GALE AND FLOODS

CROPS DAMAGED IN IRELAND.

GREAT SEAS ON THE WESTERN COAST

FLOODING has taken place in many parts of Ireland as the result of the recent heavy rain, and in some low-lying areas crops which had been cut in the fields suffered much damage.

CLARE COAST BATTERED

Whipped by a western gale, a mountainous sea on Sunday battered the Clare Coast from Loop Head to Ballyvaughan. The already severely damaged promenade at Lahinch received its full share of the battering. Some of the huge waves, after crashing on the promenade, swept over houses in the vicinity and sent sea water and spray into the main streets of the village, forty yards away. Crowds of people on a hill adjacent to the village stood silently watching the awe-inspiring sight, and motorists passing through the village halted their cars to watch the waves.

Similar scenes were witnessed at Kilkee, where during the week-end waves climbed over the battlement on the sea front and undermined the foundations of some bathing boxes. At Doolin a swimming gala, organised by the Ennis Swimming Club, had to be postponed indefinitely, as no swimmer could hope to survive in the heavy sea.

FLOODS IN DONEGAL AND TYRONE

Following torrential rain extensive flooding has taken place in Donegal. The Rivers Lennon and Swilly overflowed their banks, and all low-lying ground was inundated.

Farmers have suffered severe losses through the corn being swept away and potatoes swamped. One farmer in Manorcunningham had six acres of oats swept away.

In some places the roads were rendered temporarily impassable.

The River Mourne at Strabane was in high flood on Sunday night, and hundreds of acres of land in North Tyrone are under water. Corn crops in the mountain districts have been swept out of the fields into the River Mourne.

FARM WORK HELD UP

Loughrea and South Galway have experienced one of the most severe spells of wild and wet weather known at this period of the year for a long time. The deluge of the past few days has caused extensive flooding.

The heavy rains are rendering farm work almost impossible.

Large quantities of barley, oats and wheat are scattered through the fields in small "stooks" in the Midlands, and cannot be gathered for threshing.

Most of the threshing was done at this time last year, and, even if the weather should clear up now, it will take weeks to dry the corn for threshing.

Thousands of cocks of hay are in danger of flooding along the banks of the Shannon and its tributaries.

FISHING SUSPENDED

All fishing activities off the South Wexford coast are still at a stand-still owing to a strong south-west gale, which has created heavy seas. Vessels arrived at Rosslare Harbour considerably behind schedule. The incoming Great Western Railway mail-boat from Fishguard had a rough passage, and the weekly live-stock steamer Inniscarra, from Liverpool, received a severe buffeting.

At Kilmore, lobstermen were unable to put to sea after their pots, and it is feared that many pots have been swept out to sea. Small coasters were compelled to seek shelter.

In inland districts stacks of corn were scattered by the wind.

BLACKWATER IN FLOOD

A severe rainstorm broke over Mallow yesterday afternoon. The River Blackwater rose some feet in the space of a few hours. O'Brien street was covered with a stream of water from side to side.

FLOODING IN CORK

Following a day's heavy rain, driven by a strong south-easterly wind, severe flooding was caused in the centre district of Cork City last night at high tide. At about nine o'clock both branches of the river overflowed on to the quays, and Patrick street and the South Mall were under water, while in Oliver Plunket street and the adjoining thoroughfares water entered houses and shops.

Crowds leaving cinemas and theatres after the first performances had some lively experiences, and some girls took off their shoes and stockings to make their way to cars and 'buses.

THE GALE IN ENGLAND

WIND REACHES SEVENTY MILES AN HOUR

Fierce gales were reported from many parts of Southern England and Ireland last night. The Air Ministry were informed by radio of a 70 miles an hour gale off the South-West of Ireland at 6 p.m. Pembroke reported winds at 50 miles an hour in the Scilly Isles, and at Plymouth there were gusts of 40 miles an hour.

In London on the Air Ministry roof a gust of 40 miles an hour was recorded. Wind velocity reached 55 miles an hour at Croydon and Lympne.

An Air Ministry official said: "Strong wind velocities are likely to be reported from all over England, and, possibly, Scotland."

BEACH HUTS WRECKED

In one of the worst gales experienced for many years, considerable damage was done last night to beach structures at Bournemouth. Dozens of huts were torn down and wrecked, and owners could be seen hurriedly trying to salve what was left from the fury of the gale.

Well before midnight the Undercliff Drive was impassable through heavy waves breaking right over it, and high tide was not due until one o'clock. Officials were kept on duty all night watching Corporation property on the sea-front. A number of trees were uprooted further inland by a wind which reached 70 miles an hour, while dozens of telephone lines were put out of action.

HURRICANE IN CHANNEL

Shortly after midnight the gale in the Channel reached hurricane force, and at Folkestone gusts of over 70 m.p.h. were recorded. The Dunkirk steamer—due to leave Folkestone shortly after one a.m. with passengers and mails—had not been able to berth at Folkestone after lying at anchor off the town.

WAR RISK INSURANCE

UNDERWRITERS' MOVE

Notice that their existing marine insurance contracts will cease to provide for risk against loss or damage from war was given to merchants yesterday by Lloyds' marine underwriters.

At the expiration of the notice an additional premium will be required to cover war risk if the international situation warrants it.

The decision to give notice followed a meeting of the underwriters. It was made partly in connection with discussions which have been going on for some years, and also because of the Italo-Abyssinian dispute. The giving of the notice is intended as a precautionary measure, enabling the underwriters to charge a reasonable premium commensurate with the risk should the position become serious. If there is no alteration in the existing situation it is not anticipated that any materially increased rates are likely to be charged.

FIGHTING IRISHMEN

5,000 TO SERVE ABYSSINIA?

According to a Reuter telegram from Addis Ababa, five thousand Irishmen have offered to fight for Abyssinia if war breaks out with Italy. In addition to the Irish, 3,000 Frenchmen, as well as hundreds of British, Germans, Brazilians, and Russians have volunteered to serve with the army, a Government statement adds, but scarcely any of the offers are being accepted.

WILL RECALL OFFICERS

"ILLEGAL" SERVICE OF BELGIANS

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BRUSSELS, Monday.

A communiqué issued by the office of the Prime Minister states that certain of the Belgian officers who have arrived in Abyssinia to serve in the Ethiopian Army will be recalled on account of their military duties.

"Press reports have stated that a group of Belgian officers have arrived in Ethiopia to serve in the army of the Negus. The Government has obtained confirmation of these reports concerning certain retired officers and officers of reserve.

"The officers acted entirely without the knowledge of the Government. The Minister of National Defence had previously warned all Belgians still subject to military obligations of the illegal character, in the absence of special authorisation, of any enlistment in a foreign army.

"Consequently those infringing this rule will be recalled to Belgium by the Minister of National Defence, who further will take the measures provided for by military regulations. With regard to those who are free from military obligations the Government warns them against the consequences which may result in the case of war from their enlistment in the service of one of the belligerent Powers."

When questioned as to the report that 5,000 Irishmen had offered to fight for Abyssinia in the event of war with Italy, the Free State Department of External Affairs had no information on the matter.

WITHDRAWAL FROM LEAGUE?

A fresh meeting of the Italian Cabinet, called for Wednesday next, may be the occasion of an announcement of Italy's withdrawal from the League of Nations, says the Rome correspondent of the Havas Agency.

The report of the League Committee of five will, it is stated in Rome, be examined with attention, but the chances of acceptance are extremely slight, adds the correspondent.

The representatives of 40,000,000 women—the delegates of feminist organisations at Geneva—have wired to Signor Mussolini urging him to set a splendid example of peace by renouncing his war designs.

SITUATION NOT HOPELESS

MR. A. GREENWOOD ON SANCTIONS

Mr. Arthur Greenwood, M.P., who was Minister of Health in the Labour Government, speaking at Wigan last night, said that we were faced with a serious international situation, but he did not think it was hopeless. I believe, he said, that the public opinion of the world is determined that peace shall be maintained. We all want it to be maintained, because we realise that unless we get a settled peace all the hopes we have for to-day and to-morrow will be destroyed. The Labour Party want peace, but you cannot allow people to run about the world breaking the law. There are ways of stopping wars without bloodshed. There are such things as sanctions, and the Labour Congress has decided that it will stand for the use of sanctions against Italy. I do not think sanctions mean war. I believe they are the only way to keep peace.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

JOHANNESBURG, Monday.

Three players were struck by lightning while taking part in an Association football match here. None of them was seriously injured. Most of the other members of the team said they felt the shock. So far as is known this is the first time in the history of the game that players have been struck by lightning during a match.

To-Day's Motor News

INSURANCE OF BIG CARS

THE FREE STATE RATES

GREATER LIABILITY TO ACCIDENT

MR. HAROLD J. WILEY, F.,C.I.B., sends the following letter in reply to a paragraph which appeared in our Motor Notes yesterday on the question of insurance premiums for big cars:—

Mr. Harold C. Brown touches upon this question: "Is a large car more likely to be involved in a crash than a small car?" Now motor underwriters operating in the Irish Free State have found that such is the case, because when a motorist changes over from a small car to a large one he usually overlooks two facts: (1) that he is driving a car possessing fiercer acceleration because of the higher horse power; and (2) he overlooks the width of the car.

For some time past insurance rating has received the earnest consideration of all motor underwriters, but Lloyd's, in particular, have approached it from the careful driver's point of view. Now to encourage careful driving, if a car has been insured and run free of claim for twelve months the undermentioned nett rates would obtain with certain Lloyd's underwriters:—

	Comprehensive. £ s. d.	Third Party. £ s. d.
Ford ..... 30 h.p.	16 8 8	8 19 4
Chrysler ... 19.8 h.p.
Dodge ..... 19.8 h.p.	13 18 8	7 2 0
Essex ..... 20.7 h.p.
Morris ..... 25 h.p.	15 16 8	7 18 4

From the foregoing you will see that it behoves motorists to drive carefully.

I personally have been over all the assembling plants in the Irish Free State, with the result that I was able to get the lower rate for the V.8 Ford, simply due to the fact that their assembling plant stood apart from the rest, and also that the repairs would be lower because of the standardised charge for spare parts and labour.

With the public at large there appears to be the idea that a huge profit is to be made out of motor insurance, but in the Post Magazine of the 14th September, 1935, are the figures of no less than 64 tariff insurance companies who charge higher rates than the non-tariff companies and Lloyd's. Of these companies no less than 33 show a loss on their 1934 working, although they handled between them 22 millions odd.

The lesson to be learnt from this is that it is only by catering for the careful motorist and using careful selection that any insurance company or underwriters can hope to make a profit.

PHŒNIX PARK SPEED

FIFTH FASTEST ROAD COURSE

FROM OUR MOTORING CORRESPONDENT.

Austin Dobson's 99.6 m.p.h. lap in the Phœnix Park has at once raised the question of which is the world's fastest road race course, and of how the Phœnix Park circuit compares with it. The Avus course, on the outskirts of Berlin, is undoubtedly the fastest. This year's Avus Grand Prix was won by Fagioli in a Mercedes-Benz at over 148 m.p.h., while one of the heats was won by von Stuck in an Auto Union at 155.6 m.p.h.

The Tripoli Grand Prix was won by Caracciola in a Mercedes at 123.42 m.p.h. In practice the Alfa Romeos of Nuvolari and Chiron lapped the course at over 135 m.p.h.

Two other less famous courses seem to be faster than—or as fast as—the Phœnix Park—the Carthage circuit upon which the Tunis Grand Prix is run, and which has been lapped by Varzi in an Auto Union at 105 m.p.h., and the St. Gaudens circuit near the Pyrenees, which, in the Commings Grand Prix, has been lapped by Chiron in an Alfa-Romeo at 108.93 m.p.h.

The Avus track consists of two long, straight, parallel roads leading out of the German capital and joined by easy bends at each end; but if one begins to question its legitimacy as a road course, the same doubts must be expressed about the Phœnix Park.

On this year's speeds the Park must be ranked as the world's fifth fastest road race course. If, however, the entry of Grand Prix formula type cars of 1935 or 1936 vintage is secured for next year's race the speed may be put up to 110 miles per hour, and the Dublin race will become world famous. I understand that the Irish Motor Racing Club is to make a great effort to secure such entries by, if possible, offering prize money of sufficient size to attract Continental drivers.

It has been suggested, by the way, that if the I.M.R.C. could secure permission to charge a fee of 2s. 6d. for every car entering the Park, in the same way as a charge is made for cars entering the Tourist Trophy race area in the North, a very substantial contribution to the cost of organising the race would be received. There were many thousands of cars in the Park on Saturday. Some have placed the number as high as 10,000.

THE NEW M.G.

Here is some advance information about the new M.G.—It will have an o.h.v. six-cylinder engine of two-litre capacity; it will have a four-speed synchromesh gearbox; the body will be commodious, the driver comfort a speciality, the performance high, and the coachwork style such that it will still be dignified in three or four years' time.

VAUXHALL PROGRAMME

The new Vauxhall Big Six for 1936 will have a new radiator grille and modern bonnet louvres. Additional head and leg room is to be provided in the body. The seats are to be tension sprung, and it is claimed that the result is a most luxurious seat which can neither bounce nor "bottom." A foot-operated headlamp dipping system is to be fitted, and there is to be improved carburation and clutch mechanism, while the synchromesh gearbox is still quieter. The Light Six is to be continued in its present form. A new coupe on this chassis recently has been introduced with very attractive lines.

EYSTON'S NEW RECORDS

BIG ATTEMPT TO-MORROW

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

SALT LAKE CITY (UTAH), Monday.

Capt. G. E. T. Eyston, driving his new car, "Speed of the Wind," has regained for Great Britain the hour record which the American, Ab Jenkins, wrested from John Cobb last month. Eyston averaged 159.30 miles for the hour's run, which beats by more than 7 m.p.h. the record set up by Jenkins on the same course—the Bonneville Salt Flats—on August 6.

By covering 200 kilometres at an average speed of 159.18 m.p.h., Eyston also broke the world's record for that distance.

Capt. Eyston hopes to begin his attack on the 24 hours' record to-night. If all goes well, he may decide to extend the run to 48 hours.

Officials of the American Automobile Association have set up 285 flares along the course to light it up at night for Eyston's 24-hour run. State highway officials are arranging to patrol the course to preclude any chance of tourists, unfamiliar with the Salt Beds, wandering across the track, thereby seriously endangering the lives of themselves and the drivers.

RECORDS FOR FRANCE

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS, Monday.

The Peugeot car, Delphine, which is being driven on the Montlhery track in relays by a team of French drivers, headed by M. Cesar Marchand, has broken the following three international class records for cars from 1,100 to 1,500 c.c.:—

5,000 Kilometres, at an average speed of 102.648 k.p.h. (approximately 64 m.p.h.).

4,000 Miles, at an average speed of 102.818 k.p.h. (approximately 64¼ m.p.h.).

7,396.607 Kilometres (approximately 4,623 miles), in 72 hours, at an average speed of 102.731 k.p.h. (approximately 64¼ m.p.h.).

FRANCISCAN PILGRIMS

RETURN OF FIRST SECTION

PATIENTS EXPERIENCE IMPROVEMENT

THIRTEEN hundred pilgrims, comprising the first section of the Irish Franciscan Pilgrimage to Lourdes, returned to Dublin yesterday on the steamship Laurentic. Expected to arrive in the Liffey at about two o'clock, the giant Cunard-White Star liner was in the river almost up to time, but the delicate task of berthing her in the Alexandra Basin took a little time, so that it was 3.15 before the gangways were raised. As the ship drew alongside, the pilgrims were heard singing the Lourdes and other hymns.

When an Irish Times representative went aboard he found the travellers all in splendid spirits, notwithstanding that the weather on the return voyage from Le Verdon had been none too good. In this section of the pilgrimage there had been about fifty hospital cases, and in some of these cases there had been a marked improvement. Whilst those in charge of the pilgrimage were reticent and declined to state anything, our representative learned that there had been three cases in which the improvement had been extraordinary.

SERVICES ON BOARD

There were forty-eight priests on board the Laurentic in this section of the pilgrimage, led by the Most Rev. Dr. Mageean, Bishop of Down and Connor. Over fifty Masses every day were celebrated on board, and Dr. Mageean presided daily at High Mass. Benediction and the Holy Hour were also given daily, and as not all could find room in the saloon which served as chapel, the Services were relayed to the promenade deck by means of loud-speakers, so that all might participate in the ceremonies.

On Friday last there was special High Mass in the Rosary Church, Lourdes, at which the Bishop of Down and Connor presided, and delivered a sermon on the effects of the pilgrimage, referring to the keynote of the Lourdes pilgrimages as the wonderful care of the sick. He also spoke of the traditional devotion of the Irish to the Mother of God and Our Lady of Lourdes.

On Saturday, after Mass, which was celebrated at Bernadette's Altar, in Rosary square, the Irish pilgrims paid a farewell visit to the Bishop of Lourdes and Tarbes. His lordship spoke of the wonderful manifestations of Irish faith which he had witnessed when he came to Dublin for the Eucharistic Congress, and he also referred to the great devotion of the Irish people to Our Lady of Lourdes as manifested in the many grottos erected in Ireland.

The Bishop of Lourdes and Tarbes and the Bishop of Down and Connor then simultaneously imparted their blessing to the entire pilgrimage.

Dr. Mageean remained in Lourdes to lead the second section of the Irish pilgrimage, which will return at the end of the week.

The arrival, berthing and disembarkation arrangements at Dublin were carried out under the supervision of Mr. V. J. O'Hare, the Dublin Manager of the Cunard-White Star Company; Captain Webb, Harbour Master, and Captain Twohig, Assistant Harbour Master; whilst members of the St. John Ambulance Brigade and volunteer stewards assisted in the removal of the invalids and stretcher cases.

The Rev. Father Angelus, O.F.M., was Director of Transport; the Rev. Father Fintan, Master of Ceremonies; the Rev. Father Fridolin (Limerick), Organiser, and the Rev. Father Gabriel, O.F.M., Musical Director. They—and, indeed, all the passengers—were loud in their praise of the wonderful courtesy and kindness of Captain Burd and his officers and staff, all of whom had done everything in their power to make the voyage not only pleasant, but memorable.

LIVERPOOL VESSEL IN DISTRESS

WIRELESS MESSAGE TO LAND'S END

A Lloyd's message states:—The Land's End Wireless Station telegraphed yesterday:—

The following message was received from the British steamer Mary Kingsley, at 8.29 p.m.:—"S.O.S., approximate position, 50.4 north, 7.40 west. Hove to; heading 220 Heavy gale and sea. Very anxious position, owing to deck cargo, locomotives, and undecked barge, and shipping heavy water. Can any vessel keep near, especially big ones, that might make a lee for me?"

A later wireless message said:—"Please come at once; most of our crew injured. Very anxious."

The Mary Kingsley is a vessel of 4,017 tons gross, built in 1930 at Ardrossan. She is owned by the Elder-Dempster Lines, Ltd., and is registered at Liverpool.

The position given by the steamer—50.4 north, 7.40 west—is, roughly, 80 miles west of Land's End.

BRITISH LABOUR CANDIDATES

510 CHOSEN FOR NEXT ELECTION

VIEWS ON ITALIAN FASCISM

THERE are five hundred and ten endorsed Labour candidates for the next election in Great Britain—an increase of seventy-six on the year—and eighty-two constituencies for which candidates have not yet been selected, states the report of the National Executive Committee of the Labour Party to be submitted to the annual conference at Brighton on September 30.

Reference is made to the Government circular on air raid precautions, and the Executive says that it is the duty of Labour members of local authorities to fulfil their obligations to the communities.

WAR RISKS

"Modern statecraft," the report adds, "has involved the civil populations in the risks attendant on modern warfare, and until more intelligent statecraft eliminates war from the world the risks must be freed and provision made for coping with their direct possibilities.

"Participation in these protective services need not impair the Labour movement's belief in its own peace policy."

The Labour Party, the report continues, would press for an All-European Air Convention, providing for the abolition of all national air forces, the internationalisation of civil aviation, and the setting up of an international air police force under the League of Nations.

ITALIAN FASCISM

Regarding the international situation, the report says that Italian Fascism, like Japanese militarism, had been heading towards its inevitable end, war, and the energy of the British Government was not directed, as it should have been, to make it clear to Italy that if she went to war this country would ask the other members of the League to join with her in honouring their obligations under the Covenant.

Any genuine grievance of Italy against Abyssinia could be dealt with through the technical organisations of the League by methods of international co-operation.

GRAFTON STREET SCENE

GUARD'S PURSUIT OF A MAN

A policeman holding on grimly to a motor car—his feet on the running board—and issuing instructions to the driver; a crowd of people running behind the car, and others shouting—this unusual scene was witnessed by the crowds in Grafton street yesterday morning during a police pursuit of a man.

A Guard on duty in Grafton street at about noon saw a man, and immediately gave chase. The man ran in and out of the crowds and made it almost impossible for the policeman to get near him. He ultimately gained on his pursuer.

The Guard then stopped a motor car, and, jumping on to the running board, directed the driver to proceed down Grafton street. When the car had arrived at the Trinity College end of the street, however, the "wanted" man had disappeared, and inquiries by the Guard, who by this time had been joined by a colleague, failed to ascertain in what direction he had fled.

The Guard then proceeded to College Street Police Station, and shortly afterwards two detectives on bicycles went in search of the fugitive.

THREE HORSES SHOT

COUNTY TIPPERARY OUTRAGE

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BORRISOLEIGH, Monday.

A shooting outrage is reported from Comer, Whitechurch, Co. Tipperary, where three valuable working horses were found dead on the farm of Mr. P Quinlan last Saturday.

On last Friday night all telephonic communication was cut in the Borrisoleigh area, the wires having been severed at Gurtnahalla, on the Upper Church road, and at Cullohill, on the Nenagh-Thurles road. Two creameries near the scene of the shooting were smeared with inscriptions on that night, referring to Sheriff's seizures at Fermoy and a warning against the purchase of seized stock.

Civic Guards from Newport, under Superintendent Buggy, and from Templemore area, under Superintendent Collerin, questioned a number of men, and yesterday they detained Tim Clohessy, Pallas, and J Spillane, Cullohill. Two men named Kennedy and Spillane also were detained in Templederry. Clohessy was released to-day, but the others still are detained.

EUROPE TREMBLING ON THE BRINK

LORD SNOWDEN ON AN IMPERIALIST WAR

In a letter to Mr. C. O'Connor Hennessy, who will preside at the annual Henry George Congress, in New York, on September 26, Viscount Snowden says:—"At the time I write Europe is trembling on the brink of an Imperialist War, the magnitude and consequences of which no man can calculate. The root cause of this impending conflict is land acquisition for the purpose of alien exploitation. All the diabolical machinery of modern warfare is to be employed to crush the independence of a defenceless State, and to appropriate its land."

PARACHUTE JUMPS TO SAFETY

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BOLOGNA, Monday.

Four men saved their lives by making parachute jumps from a bombing 'plane near Bologna. In taking off for a flight to Bologna the under-carriage of the machine was so badly damaged that it was impossible for the 'plane to land. Signals were put out and a machine took off with the object of warning the pilot of the danger of landing. The four men in the machine thereupon took to their parachutes and landed safely, while the bomber crashed near-by. The incident occurred ten days ago, but nothing has been allowed to be published till to-day.

The change of the flag on German merchant vessels took place yesterday on all vessels in German harbours, and presumably also on all German vessels on the high seas. The new German law states that the flag of the Reich and the nation is the Swastika flag, which at the same time is the commercial flag.

ROAD GRANTS HELD UP

MINISTER TAKES ACTION

SEQUEL TO SLIGO ALLEGATION

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

SLIGO, Monday.

ALL road improvement grants to County Sligo have been deferred for the current year by the Minister for Local Government as a result of a report to him that a member of the County Council, as alleged, interfered with the selection of men for employment in connection with the surface dressing of a road in the Curry district.

This decision was conveyed to Sligo County Council following a complaint made at a recent meeting by Mr. T. Henry, County Councillor, who alleged that another member, Mr. James Gilligan, went with a gang of his followers to the road foreman and demanded to have some men dismissed and his own nominees put on the work. Mr. Gilligan denied that he tried to get any man dismissed, and said that he merely recommended men for employment, as he had a perfect right to do.

The Department's letter stated that the Minister took a serious view of Mr. Gilligan's action, and added: "Until he receives a definite assurance from the Council that there will be no interference in future with responsible officers of the Council in giving full effect to the regulations, he has deferred notifying the improvement grant to be made to County Sligo for the current year."

Mr. Gilligan said that he went to the Surveyor's office to find out why four Blue Shirts were dismissed, and Fianna Fáil men taken on.

Mr. R. J. Kirwan, County Surveyor, said that Mr. Gilligan was the only person who brought up the question of politics.

After a long discussion, a resolution was proposed stating that the Council considered the action of the Department in "condemning a councillor on the information of an outsider without investigating the charge as highly unreasonable. The Councillor denies the charge, and wishes to be brought face to face with the informant, so that the full facts can be established."

An amendment, that "the assurance asked for by the Department be given," was defeated by eight votes to five, and the resolution declared passed.

OUTBREAK TRACED TO DAIRY

TYPHOID ON THE WANE IN BELFAST

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Monday.

A special meeting of the Belfast Corporation was held to-day to consider the recent typhoid epidemic in the city, when over fifty cases of the disease were notified.

Alderman Dr. Williamson said that the epidemic was now on the wane. The outbreak had been traced to one dairy, it being established that some person or persons connected with it were carriers of the disease. The supply of milk to the city from that dairy was at once voluntarily stopped. If everything went as they expected the disease would soon be completely arrested. He asked the Council to endorse the action of the Public Health Committee in requiring the owner of the dairy concerned not to supply any milk within the county borough.

After some discussion, in which it was admitted that the plant and equipment of the dairy were quite modern and well kept, the Council passed the resolution.

EXPRESSIONS OF SYMPATHY

THE LATE SIR THOMAS ESMONDE

The last respects of hundreds of sympathisers, reflecting the country-wide regret caused by the death on Saturday last of Sir Thomas Grattan Esmonde were paid yesterday when they called at, or sent messages to Grattan House, Dublin, expressing sympathy at his passing.

Thousands of telegrams were received from many parts of Ireland, England, America and the Continent, among them being one from Mr. de Valera, President of the Executive Council of the Irish Free State. Others were sent by the chairman and directors of the National Bank, London; members of the Dail and the Senate, while callers included Mr. Sean MacEntee, Minister for Finance; Mrs. MacEntee; the Attorney-General and Mrs. Maguire, Mr. R. Mulcahy, T.D., and Mrs. Mulcahy; Senator Comyn, K.C.; Mr. Cecil Lavery, K.C., T.D., and Mrs. Lavery.

The Rev. T. Finlay, S.J., privately celebrated Mass during the day in the chapel attached to the residence, and later the remains were removed to the chapel, with the cape, hat and sword of the Knight of the Holy Sepulchre resting on the coffin. The funeral will take place to-day, following Mass at 10 a.m.

A vote of condolence with Lady Esmonde and the relatives of the late Sir Thomas Grattan Esmonde, Bart., who at one time represented South County Dublin in the House of Commons, was passed last night at a special meeting of the Dun Laoghaire Borough Corporation.

Senator E. J. Duggan, Chairman, presided.

WHAT SANCTIONS MAY MEAN

DUCE FORESEES WAR IN EUROPE

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS, Tuesday.

"Italy will go straight ahead in what she considers just.

"We find it monstrous that Great Britain, which dominates the world, refuses us a small patch in the African sun.

"Sanctions would mean running the risk of re-shaping the map of Europe."

These were three sentences used by Mussolini in an interview published in this morning's Matin.

THE "STREET OF THE IRISH"

Paris street names are extremely curious and interesting, many of them very long, others short. They recall men of yesterday and of the distant past—Frenchmen and men of other countries. Among these Englishmen are more honoured than any others.

Charles Dickens and Lord Byron have streets named after them in the aristocratic sixteenth division of the city, the rue Lord Byron being close to the famous Champs Elysées. Watt and Stephenson have their streets, and the rue Roger Bacon is not far from the rue Faraday. Captain Scott is among the recently honoured. One of the finest streets, leading from the Seine to the Champs Elysées, is named after His Majesty King George V. Edward VII. has a street, and Queen Victoria an avenue, named after them.

The rue des Anglais (street of the English) and Rue des Irlandais (street of the Irish) date from the Middle Ages, and were undoubtedly lived in by the English and Irish students in the Latin Quarter. Both are picturesque old streets near the famous Boulevard St. Michel.

THE ABBEY THEATRE

"A DEUCE O' JACKS"

Luke Gaffney ..... Michael J. Bolan.
Barefoot Mike ..... Fred. Johnson.
Knacker Byrne ..... P. J. Carolan.
Golden Maggie ..... Maureen Delany.

There is no doubt that the proper place for "A Deuce o' Jacks" would have been before the performance of "Maurice Harte," not after it. This short new play of Mr. F. R. Higgins, one feels, was not written seriously, nor meant to be taken very seriously. It is little more than a fantastic sketch, and to perform this light-hearted, irresponsible piece after the grimness of "Maurice Harte" is like serving the hors d'œuvres after the joint. The audience is not in the mood for it when it comes.

As a sketch "A Deuce o' Jacks" has merits, though it does not even begin to be a play. "Zozimus," the Dublin ballad-singer, is on his death-bed, and Mr. Higgins has re-created the half-savage, heartless humour of Dublin which gave us such songs as "The Night Before Larry was Stretched." His "gutties" and "shawlies" do not care about the old man's death—even the victim himself does not mind—and the interest centres around the porter which will flow at his wake. The guests laugh and drink, dance and sing, and the proceedings are ended only by the arrival of the real "Zozimus" and the discovery that the man whose wake was being prematurely celebrated is an impostor.

Slight as it is, the play rests rather heavily upon so slight a plot, and its real merits are to be found elsewhere. The author's command of words has given it a rich and robust dialogue that is quite characteristic, and his style is perfectly suited to the wild atmosphere he has tried to create. How well he has caught the spirit is shown in his "Jezebel" song, which is exactly in the tradition of the famous ballad about Pharaoh's daughter. Incidentally, however, the appearance of both Jezebel and Pharaoh's daughter was rather strange in a play which seemed at the beginning to be quite naturalistic.

Perhaps the style of production was to blame for this, and certainly it was to blame for more obvious faults. In particular, the stage was far too dark—which had the usual effect of making it very difficult to hear the words—and the crowd scenes were rather clumsily handled, giving an impression of confusion. Among the company, Michael J. Dolan, Fred Johnson, P. J Carolan, Maureen Delany, Muriel Kelly and Chris. Sheehan were the most outstanding.

"Maurice Harte," which went before "A Deuce O' Jacks," was notable for some really fine acting by F. J. McCormick, Eileen Crowe and Michael J. Dolan—the first two in particular. F. J. McCormick, although the part was too "young" for him, was entirely convincing as the young clerical student, and Eileen Crowe showed again that she can rise to great emotional heights when she gets the type of part that suits her. Her interpretation of Ellen Harte is one of the best things she has done.

GAIETY THEATRE

"In Town To-night" is the name of a popular English radio feature and also of this week's show at the Gaiety Theatre, in which a B.B.C. dance band and several broadcasting stars appear. The band, directed by Toni Rice, is the main feature of the programme, and plays a whole series of popular numbers with vocal accompaniments to some of them by The Four Relations, a pleasing feminine quartette, who also have an act of their own. Barlow and Griffith, two more vocalists, give a few extracts from some of the more tuneful of the musical comedies.

Anita Penn, a seventeen-year-old juggler, who is said to come from Dublin, was clever, particularly in bouncing balls while blindfolded. Peel and Curtis were two laughable comedians, and Fynch and Payne and Mounsey and Clark were quite good.

OLYMPIA THEATRE

Charles Regan, the principal comedian in the revue, "Come Over Here," introduced some amusing witticisms and parodies last night. One of the most enjoyable of the musical combinations was that in which Edna Terry, Betty Clelland, Winnie Jeannette, Ben Silverton, Eva Linacre, and Braham Cowan took part. Betty Clelland has a pleasing soprano voice, and Eva Linacre not only sings well but is an expert xylophone player and a nimble dancer. The scenes, "A Gipsy Scena," "A Spanish Garden," and "An Earful of Music," were artistically staged, and the dancing and singing of "Our Girl Friends," put added zest into the performance. The three Canadians, Eric Tinsley, Hazel Haye, and George Perry, were also in the cast.

TORCH THEATRE

"The Speckled Band," Conan Doyle's detective drama, is being performed in a stage version this week. In a dramatic production, the players fully utilised the opportunities for improved stage work provided by the recent improvements in lighting and staging generally.

Mr. C. L. Keogh shouldered the rôle of Sherlock Holmes with distinction and received good support from Eric Henry as Dr. Watson, Robert Willis as Dr. Crimesby Rylott, Jennifer Maude as Enid Stoner, and Evelyn M. Lund as Mrs. Staunton. Gerald Roch's "Mr. Scott Wilson" was also impressive, and he played two rôles extremely well. Other characters were filled by Dennis Franks, E. Byrne and Frank O'Connor.

SIR E. GIRDWOOD'S FAREWELL

TRIBUTE TO BORDER REGIMENT

"You have worked well and played well, and you left a very fine impression on the citizens of Belfast by your conduct during the recent riots," said Major-General Sir Eric Girdwood yesterday, when he addressed the 1st Battalion, Border Regiment, at the Palace Barracks, Holywood, near Belfast.

Sir Eric was saying farewell to the officers and men on relinquishing his command of the Northern Ireland District. He added that he was delighted that the battalion had done its work so well and without a single complaint.

SIR JOHN LAVERY

FREEDOM OF DUBLIN CEREMONY

The freedom of the City of Dublin will be conferred on Sir John Lavery, R.A., R.H.A., the distinguished artist, at a special meeting of the Corporation, which will be held at noon to-day.

The ceremony will take place in the Council Chamber at the City Hall. Luncheon will be served at the conclusion of the meeting.

JEWS REFUSED MARRIAGE LICENCES

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

THE HAGUE, Monday.

In consequence of the new German marriage laws Dutch municipal authorities have already refused to licence the marriages of several German Jews with German or Dutch women. Such marriages are no longer legal in Germany, and under existing treaty arrangements between Holland and Germany, German and Dutch subjects are bound by the laws of their own country, whichever side of the frontier they reside.

LARCENY FROM BEACH

BATHERS LOSE PROPERTY

At Howth District Court, yesterday, Erick Sankey, Dollymount, was charged with having stolen a fountain pen, a purse containing 4s. 6d. and a purse containing 1s. 10d. from the beach near the Bailey Lighthouse. Edward Sankey was charged with having received the articles, knowing them to have been stolen.

Miss Evelyn Wynne, Phibsboro', said that she was bathing near the Bailey on the 10th August, and left a purse containing 4s. 6d. and a fountain pen on the beach near her clothes. When she came out they were gone.

Miss Higginson, Lower Drumcondra road, said that she was bathing with Miss Wynne, and missed a purse containing 1s. 10d.

Guard Loftus said that Erick Sankey said that he found the fountain pen on the beach.

Edward Sankey gave evidence that his brother gave him a fountain pen and a purse, and said that he found them.

The Justice said that prison was the place for people who robbed from bathers' clothing on the beach. It was a lamentable state of affairs that such robberies should occur. He convicted both the defendants, and said that but for their mother appearing in court they would certainly go to prison. He sentenced Erick Sankey to one month's imprisonment, not to take effect if he paid a fine of £1, and fined Edward £1.

The Justice commended Guard Loftus for his conduct in the case.

CHURCH OF IRELAND

The Joint Diocesan Councils of Dublin, Glendalough and Kildare met yesterday. The Archbishop of Dublin presided. The other members present were:—Canon Young, Precentor Lewis-Crosby, Canon Chamberlain, Canon Connell, the Archdeacon of Dublin, Canon Hughes, the Rev. C. C. W. Duggan, Canon Oulton, D.D.; Mr. A. T. Barber, Sir John W. Moore, M.D.; Mr. D. Horgan, LL.D.; Sir W. J. Smyly, M.D.; Mr. W. E. Thrift., S.F.,T.C.D., T.D.; Mr. C. St. G. Orpen, Mr. P. H. Grierson, Right Hon. the Earl of Belmore, D.L.; Mr. R. H. Ryland, Mr. W. Chamney, Canon Long, the Rev. D. H. Gillman, the Rev. F. J. Rainsford, Mr. A. W. Irwin, Mr. E. F. L. Ellis, Mr. J. F. Cowper, Mr. R. E. F. Jones, Lieutenant-Colonel C. E. Riall, D.S.O.; Dean of Kildare, Prebendary Kitching, the Rev. G. J. Wilson and Mr. T. Wade.

The following resolution of sympathy was passed in silence, all the members standing: "That we, the members of the Joint Diocesan Councils of Dublin and Glendalough and Kildare have heard with deep sorrow of the recent death of our colleague, Captain T. Gisborne Gordon, who, as a member of the Councils and their principal committees, was for long a valued worker for the Church and a man popular with all who knew him, and we desire to express our sincere sympathy with his relatives in their sad loss."

The quarterly report of the Joint Finance Committee was read, amended and adopted.

Stipends for the current quarter were passed to the amount of £11,338 8s.

Grants from superannuation sources were passed to the amount of £799 12s. 6d.

The quarterly report of the Joint Glebes Committee was read.

Old Clothes—Mrs. O'Sullivan.

During the months of July and August there were 3,086 out-patients, including X-ray examinations, sun lamp treatment and minor operations.

The hospital is non-political and non-sectarian.

"Constipation is his trouble, or I'm much mistaken.

A healthy boy should be full of fun; skylarking with the others; but when I see a child moping alone I know that what is wanted is 'California Syrup of Figs' to put the stomach right and cleanse the system.

Give children a weekly dose of 'California Syrup of Figs' and you'll never have this trouble with them. It keeps them regular and healthy, and then they're bound to be happy.

Safe? You're wise to ask that. Some mothers are too ready to experiment with cheap and drastic preparations, not realising the danger. Take my advice and give the children 'California Syrup of Figs.' Doctors recommend it and give it to their own children. We Nurses swear by it.

Send to the chemist and get a bottle. Give Bobby a dose to-night and he'll be as fit as a fiddle in the morning. Wait till you taste 'California Syrup of Figs,' Bobby. It's simply delicious.

There are two sizes—1/3 and 2/6. The larger bottle is the cheaper in the long run, but be sure to get 'California Syrup of Figs' brand."

Autumn Unplaced in Caledonian Hunt Cup

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.

LONDON, Monday Night.

NOTHING much was to be learned about either the Cesarewitch or the Cambridgeshire from the call-over of the card on both races in London to-day. Chrysler was a first favourite for the former race from Tommaok and Shining Cloud.

These three have been backed at long odds for small money through the country, mostly by uninspired punters, and there had to be some averaging up between the layers.

There was most money for Shining Cloud, and I am sure that she is a genuine candidate for the Cesarewitch. There are no doubts about this filly as her second last year, when ridden by a boy, was clear evidence that she gets the distance, and she has run rather more than well in her last two races.

Tommaok, I am sure, will improve on his Manchester form when the ground is softer.

A Suppositious Horse

Chrysler is rather a suppositious horse. All that he has done has been to win the Salisbury Cup in May from Bloater, who was giving him a stone. That, as it stands, is not good enough to win the Cesarewitch.

Hoplite was backed to win a certain amount, and this, I am sure, is a good animal and a genuine stayer. It is not often that he runs only a moderate race.

Doreen Jane, who, like Shining Cloud, is owned by Sir Abe Bailey, was backed a little. She is in the same stable as Hoplite, whereas Shining Cloud is trained by Lawson. This looks like becoming complicated.

There was very little doing over the Cambridgeshire, for which Pegasus was an entirely nominal favourite. A better than this gelding may be found in the course of the next month.

The results of to-day's racing both at Warwick and Edinburgh were most unfortunate so far as favourites were concerned. Not one won at the Midland meeting, and at Edinburgh, where Easter Rush was given a walk-over, the notable feature was the failure of Autumn, on whom odds were laid. In the Caledonian Hunt Cup he did not even finish in the first three for Sir Abe Bailey's Cecil made all the running, and then won easily from Disarmament.

Cecil is one of those heart-breaking animals that do it only when they will. He set a merry gallop in the Ebor, but when he was caught he packed up.

As well as Easter Rush, Jack Jarvis had two other winners—Ancient, who won a selling plate for himself, and the Brocklesby winner, Tetrazone, who, with odds laid on him, won the Prestonpans Nursery from Miss Esmond.

Gordon Richards was concerned in three close finishes at Warwick, but his only winner was Soleil du Midi, who, in a long-drawn-out struggle beat the odds-on chance, Dimak, in the last race, the Whitnash Plate.

Selections

We are likely to see a Cesarewitch colt, NEAR RELATION, in the Edinburgh Gold Cup to-morrow at Musselburgh, which may be chosen for him in preference to the Ayrshire Handicap on Thursday. This is a good three-year-old who has won four races this season, and he should beat old Pickle and Merely a Minor, though the latter is at the top of his form now.

The Barnbougle Nursery may be won by GLEE, and the Inveresk Apprentice Sweepstakes by DESMONDTOI.

At Warwick I take CHARWOMAN to beat the hot field for the Little Breeders' Stakes.

The Emscote Plate may be won by MONK VENDOR, and the Meriden Plate by GLENTRIGO.

GALTEE MORE.

POMME D'AMOUR NAPPED

Saxicola Fancied For Little Breeders' Stakes

ALL the favourites were beaten at Warwick yesterday, despite the general belief that there were some outstanding betting chances. It is probable that there will be more surprises at the second stage of the meeting. Most of the events have an open appearance.

With a wide range of penalties and allowances the chief event, the Little Breeders' Two-year-old Stakes, resembles a nursery plate. Last year this race resulted in a dead-heat between Pomme D'Amour and Dispensation, trained by W. Nightingall and Frank Butters respectively. These two trainers will be represented again to-day. Nightingall can choose from Swift Arrow and Thalia. Both have good chances. Frank Butters will saddle Windsail, who cannot be ignored on her third to Paul Beg and Barrowby Gem in the Gimcrack Stakes.

Metaphor finished in front of Paul Beg at Stockton, and before that he defeated Such Fun and five others at Lewes. He should be hard to beat; for he is a quick starter—always an advantage on this course. Nip Off, an easy winner of a good-class nursery at Doncaster, should account for Private Entree, whose stable is out of luck.

Kinnaird will be making his second appearance on the racecourse. He ran very green when runner-up to Ipsden at Birmingham. It was not until the race was practically over that he realised what he had to do, and then he finished strongly.

The Hon. G. Lambton, who usually saddles a few fancied candidates at meetings here, is setting a problem by running two—namely, Saxicola and Where Am I. Both have good form.

Saxicola has contested only two races compared with his stable companion's four. If he can improve a bit on his last display he ought to go close. He finished second at Kempton, six lengths behind Swift Arrow, whom he now meets on 9lb. better terms.

Charwoman is another who ought to be concerned with the finish. In a very open race, in which the draw will play a big part, I shall take a chance with SAXICOLA.

Shell of Gold, the top weight in the Emscote Handicap with 9st. 5lb., won the corresponding event last year under 8st. 4lb. On the best of her form this season she can be made out to possess a sound chance.

Sorrento ran below expectations in the Molyneux Cup. He will be winning a race of this sort when the going becomes soft. Gordon Richards has been engaged for who is reported to be back in her best form. As she is well treated and a winning course I shall select her.

GLENTRIGO

is my fancy for the Meridan Plate. I hear that he has done extremely well at home of late.

PROTOMARTYR

appeals to me at the weights for the Willoughby Amateur Riders' Handicap.

I am assured that Old Pickle will take a lot of beating for the Gold Cup at Edinburgh. Thrapston, the mount of Joe Childs, and Near Relation are both expected to win. I choose

NEAR RELATION.

SOME PROBABLE RUNNERS AT THE CURRAGH

The Mountjoy Lodge trainer, P. Behan, will be strongly represented in the Railway Stakes and the Anglesey Stakes, which will be decided to-morrow and Thursday, respectively, at the Curragh. He will have four representatives in the former event and five in the "Angleseys." Stable plans in connection with both races are as yet incomplete, writes our Curragh correspondent, but, so far as has been indicated up to the present, the following can be regarded as certain starters:

The Railway Stakes:—Mr. E. A. Robinson's Terraceford (M. Wing), Mr. R. D. Seale's Promise Nothing (M. Curran), Major Dixon's Poor Fellow (G. Lester), Major Dixon's Ballymoney (P. Maher), Sir T. Dixon's Aramavo (W. Howard), Lord Talbot de Malahide's Rose of York (S. Donoghue), Mr. H. S. Gray's Hocus Pocus (Joe Canty), Mr. W. Barnett's Harvest Star and Major Shirley's Battle Song. The selected of the last-named pair will be ridden by E. Gardner.

The Anglesey Stakes:—Mr. H. Kennedy's Loona (P. Maher), Captain H. Dixon's Catalino (W. Howard), Captain H. Dixon's Grangemore (Joe Canty), Major Dixon's Ballybunion (G. Lester), Major Dixon's Ballyjamesduff, Mr. H. S. Gray's Lucky Catch, Mrs. G. Dunne's Doorn Kop (M. Wing), and Mr. J. T. Rogers's Sundown (E. Gardner).

WORK AT THE CURRAGH

THE CURRAGH, Monday.

We had some heavy rain over the week-end, but a strong wind from the south has neutralised its effect on the going to a very great extent. Nevertheless, the turf is still in good order, and our runners at the September meeting on Wednesday and Thursday will be found in excellent trim to meet their engagements.

BEHAN'S Culleen's Actress, who will contest either the Scurry Plate on Wednesday or the Turf Club Handicap on Thursday; Dexterity, who runs in the Furze Plate; Dinah's Pet, Grangemore, Hocus Pocus, Poor Fellow, Ballymoney, Catalino, Lucky Catch, Ballyjamesduff, Aramayo and Ballybunion cantered six and seven furlongs steadily in batches.

JAMES CANTY'S Representation cantered seven furlongs steadily. Red Garter and Superstitious cantered five furlongs.

J. DAWSON'S Lady Turk, who runs in the Kildare Plate, and Mill Man, who is an intended starter for the Harehill Plate, had a nice five furlong spin.

DOYLE'S Greek Jim, Dunree, Greek Lass, Sweet Home and Beech Top cantered about five furlongs.

FETHERSTONHAUGH'S Queen Christina and Toprail traversed the same distance at half speed.

ROGERS'S Irish St. Leger candidates, African Lily, Parisian and Museum, with Ladytown, Red Flame and Clicquot had a nice exercise gallop over a mile. Low Tide, Harvest Star and Sundown cantered five furlongs. Saxona II., Choclo and Spanish Brocade went seven furlongs steadily.

SLOCOCK'S Glum Jess, Golden Lancer, Promise Nothing, Star of Eden, Sly Lady and Aut Even did steady five furlongs work.

MOTOR TRADES' COMPETITIONS

J. BURKE'S FINE EFFORT AT WOODBROOK

The Motor and Allied Trades were unfortunate at Woodbrook yesterday, for the weather broke down badly in the afternoon, and the late starters, including the three Irish internationals, J. Burke, J. C. Brown and C. McMullan, had a trying time combating the heavy rain and wind, which made the second nine holes very difficult.

Still, all things considered, the outing was most successful. The entry of 38 for each competition was much better than last year, while the course played splendidly

In the morning, when the conditions were almost ideal, the Palmer Tyre Trophy was played for, and, strange as it may seem, none of the low handicap players finished in the prize list. H. E. Bell (2) finished 1 down, while Burke, McMullan and Brown finished 2 down, 3 down and 6 down, respectively. The trophy was won by a local player, D. J. Smyth (11), who finished 2 up. Next came C. O'Shea (Malahide), 1 up.

The Woodbrook Club completed a good double in the afternoon, for the Goff Cup was won by D. Bradshaw, who returned a nett 65 off an 11 handicap. The second best nett prize was won by F. G. Hyder (Skerries), who had a nett 71. Easily the best golf in this competition was played by J. Burke, who won the best gross prize with 70. He was out in 32 and home in 38, despite slips at the tenth, fourteenth and sixteenth holes. J. C. Brown, with 74, returned the second best gross. He was out in 34 and home in 40, after taking 7 at the fourteenth.

Results:—

PALMER TYRE TROPHY (18 holes, bogey).

D. J. Smyth (Woodbrook) (11)—2 up.
C. O'Shea (Malahide) (10)—1 up.
F. G. Hyder (Skerries) (10)—all square.

W. E. Huet (Delgany) (12)—6 down.
J. C. Cooney (Killua Castle) (16)—6 down.
J. C. Brown (Waterford) (plus 2)—6 down.

GOFF CUP (18 holes, strokes).

D. Bradshaw (Woodbrook) (12)—65, best nett.
F. G. Hyder (Skerries) (10)—71, 2nd best nett.
H. G. Calvert (Balmoral) (7)—75, 3rd best nett.
J. Burke (Lahinch) (plus 2)—72.
J. Cooney (Killua Castle) (16)—74.
H. E. Bell (Portmarnock) (2)—74.
C. Cooney (Killua Castle) (5)—75.
J. C. Brown (Waterford) (plus 2)—76.
C. J. McMullan (Knock) (scr.)—76.
R. J. Tamplin (Grange) (7)—76.
J. P. Berney (Milltown) (10)—76.
C. W. Huet (Bray) (1)—79.
J. Burke (Lahinch)—70, best gross.

PROPOSED IRISH BOYS' CHAMPIONSHIP

We have received the following letter from a well-known Irish golfer, who signs himself "Senex":—

"I read with much interest your reference in the Irish Times to the question of holding a Boys' Golf Championship in Ireland, and hope that the committees of either of the clubs you mention or Portrush or Newcastle and the Golfing Union will extend to Major South an early invitation in reply to his sporting offer to bring the championship to Ireland, and thus give many unknown junior golfers an opportunity of coming out in public.

"Only fifteen years ago England had no golf championship for boys. It was Major South who originated it, starting in his home club in Ascot. The competition has grown enormously in size and popularity, and this year a record entry was obtained, drawn from all classes, with entries from America, France and Germany. Golf players, like tennis players, must start young, and it is unnecessary to point to the number of prominent players who have graduated in the game under the auspices of these championship competitions.

"As a game for boys and girls golf is invaluable. Other games have their time and place. Rugby, cricket, hurling, tennis, etc., are splendid games, but it is not always possible to get a sufficient number to play them. Golf has decidedly the advantage from this point of view, and it certainly does teach self-reliance as no other game teaches it. There are a number of promising boy players in Ireland both North and South, and there should be no real difficulty about raising an international team. Furthermore, is it not time that an Irish Close Championship for boys was instituted? Practically all games in Ireland now have their junior championships, and we know their value.

"The boys' championship is so splendidly organised that the running of it would not be a burden to any club providing the venue: all that is really required is a first-class links. I would also like to mention that, as the venue for the championship would have to be arranged a suitable time in advance, it would be very desirable that the matter should receive the early attention of the golfing authorities.

"I read with interest your article on Juvenile Golf, which appeared some time ago, dealing principally with the proposed links in the Phœnix Park. I hope that juveniles will be given every facility to play, and, perhaps, those responsible for this excellent enterprise of a municipal links will go still further, and provide the juveniles with a special course of their own."

GOOD BOWLING BY YORKSHIRE

CHAMPIONS LEAD ON THE FIRST INNINGS

Only one batsman of the Rest of England side made much of the Yorkshire bowling at the Oval yesterday. That was Hardstaff, of Notts, who hit 69 of a total of 179. Some excuse for the failure of the earlier batsmen may have been poor light, but there was nothing in the wicket to account for the fact that Hardstaff alone scored more than 16 runs. Wyatt, owing to injury, could not take his innings.

Going in second wicket down at 32, the Notts batsman stayed over an hour and a-half. He had two narrow escapes; for when 31 he had to travel the whole length of the pitch to avoid a run out, and at 40 he snicked behind the wicket on the leg side a ball, which Wood grasped, but could not retain. Wood had previously held two catches, that disposing of Bakewell being an exceptionally good effort, the wicket-keeper overbalancing and holding the ball as he rolled over.

Wellard evened up the game by bowling Sutcliffe with a single scored, and Mitchell at six. Though the light was bad enough to warrant an appeal by the batsmen, Barber and Leyland carried on until rain compelled the players to seek shelter for a quarter of an hour or so. These Yorkshiremen put on 40 together, and the close of the day found the champion county leading by 119, with seven wickets to fall. Score:—

CYCLING

OPPERMAN TO ATTEMPT RECORD TO-DAY

If weather conditions are favourable to-day Opperman, the Australian professional cyclist who has done so many remarkable performances on the road in England during the past two seasons, will make an attempt on the record between Dublin and Belfast.

A fortnight ago Opperman broke the English twenty-four hours cycling record, covering a distance of 466 miles, and since then he has been spending a holiday at Bangor, County Down. Last week he rode over the course and returned to Bangor, and he will return by train from Belfast this morning.

The second of the series of trials arranged in connection with the Ulster-Leinster match at Belfast on the 12th October will take place at the Mountjoy School gala on Friday next, at Iveagh Baths. Teams:—

Whites—W. J. McCormick (Sandycove); N. F. Judd (Sandycove), G. L. Daly (Dublin University); M. A. O'Mahony (Clontarf); W. L. M. Maguire (Clontarf), R. N. Case (Clontarf), J. Nairn (Pembroke).

Blues—L. Maher (Clontarf); F. Dowds (Dublin), K. W. M'Cullough (Clonard); C. Fagan (Sandycove); L. O'Brien (Sandycove), M. D. Fletcher (Dublin University), H. P. Dockrell (Dublin University).

Reserves—D. Rudd (Pembroke) and J. Allen (Sandycove), forwards; F. Murphy (Pembroke) and J. Quinn (Clontarf), backs.

K. O'Grady (Clontarf), J. P. Shannon (Pembroke), H. A. Daniels (Dublin University), P. McCorry (Clontarf), and B. G. Kearon (Dublin University), who were selected for the last trial, were not considered for Friday's trial in order to try out other players in their positions.

The dates of the subsequent trials will be announced later. The referee for Friday's match will be Mr. F. Stephens (Dublin).

GAELIC GAMES

DUBLIN SENIOR CONVENTION

A LOSS ON THE YEAR'S WORKING

Mr. Lorcan O'Toole, the County Secretary, has issued a very complete report of the year's activities in Dublin County in preparation of the Annual Convention, to be held at 41 Parnell square on Saturday next. The number of affiliated clubs in the county is 90, as against 87 in the previous year. The absence of drawn games brought a decrease of £226 in receipts, while heavy travelling expenses (£425) helped to make an unusual net loss on the year's working amounting to £436.

The assets of the Council still show an excess of £543 over liabilities. Dublin teams did not fare well in inter-county games during the year under review. One of the motions on the agenda calls for a revision of the method of selection, and another motion suggests separate administration for hurling and football.

LACROSSE

AMERICANS' VISIT TO DUBLIN

TEAMS FOR THURSDAY'S MATCH

The Irish Ladies' Lacrosse Association held a trial match yesterday at the Pioneers' new ground, Milltown, in preparation for next Thursday's contest with the American touring team at Lansdowne road, and the following sides turned out:—

"A" Team—Misses D. Maguire, J. Latchford, B. Garrod, P. Graham, B. Scott, J. Bryce-Smyth, D. Young, E. Bryce-Smyth, H. Wilson, A. Darley, S. Dunlop, C. McGeagh.

"B" Team—Misses L. McDonnell, J. Millar, B. Rutherfoord, R. Mayne, B. Woods, L. Macauley, D. Kennedy, R. Cox, J. Lombard, N. Darley, E. Jameson, T. Rotheram.

Ten of last season's team, as well as Mrs. Millar (née Miss Joy Dunlop), who toured in the States with the British team a couple of seasons ago, played, the only absentees being Misses Hyde and Higginson. The noted coach, Miss Newbold, acted as umpire, and for half an hour the backs of both sides were pitted against the forwards of both sides. Fast play was witnessed, and then several new players were brought on, the Internationals present playing the Rest.

It was decided to play last year's Irish side against the Americans, but owing to the inability of Miss M. Higginson to turn out, her place at right attack goes to Miss H. Wilson (Pioneers).

The American visitors arrive in Dublin this morning, and a big programme of entertainments has been arranged for them. They are not at full strength, as several of their prominent players were unable to go on the tour; but a close game should be witnessed, and victory should go to the more experienced Irish team. The sides will face up at 3.45 as follow:—

IRELAND.

Misses D. Maguire (Sherbourne and Beltast), J. Latchford (Rodean and Pioneers), B. Garrod (Rodean and Belfast), H. D. Hyde (Queen Anne's, Caversham, and Belfast), J. Bryce-Smyth (St. George's, Ascot, and Belfast), B. Scott (Wycombe Abbey and Pioneers), D. Young (Wycombe Abbey and Belfast), E. Bryce-Smyth (St. George's, Ascot, and Belfast), H. Wilson (Pioneers), A. Darley (Downe House and Pioneers), S. Dunlop (Harrogate College and Pioneers), C. McGeagh (St. Alban's H.S. and Belfast).

AMERICAN TOURING TEAM.

Misses K. Weatherill (Philadelphia), L. Scott (Baltimore), B. C. Freeman (Baltimore), L. Burham (Boston), D. Benson (Boston), S. Cross (Philadelphia), E. Toulmin (Philadelphia), A. Pugh (Baltimore), J. Turnbull (Baltimore), H. Wheeler (Westchester), G. Schuyler (Westchester), E. Bonthron (Baltimore).

"BEDLAM AT HOWTH"

PROTEST BY RESIDENTS

At Howth District Court yesterday District Justice Reddin went into the granting of certificates to the various licensed traders. Mr. B. J. Newcombe, a resident of Howth, asked to be heard on the subject of Sunday drunkenness at Howth. He said that during the past four months there had been a great number of cases of drunkenness. "As your worship has said, Howth is being turned into a shambles on Sunday nights." He would be very grateful to the Justice if he could do something to eradicate this evil. Decent people were handicapped on Sunday evenings going home by 'bus or train by drunken people using blasphemous language, and generally conducting themselves in a disgraceful manner. Decent visitors to Howth were entitled to get home without encountering a gang of drunkards. "Only last night," Mr. Newcombe added, "I saw tumblers being smashed on the street outside a public-house."

Mr. Burke, P.C., said that the bona fide traffic extended to Howth, and on Sundays crowds of "semi-demented hooligans," having got drunk in the city from 2 till 5, come out to Howth and get more drink, and caused turmoil in the place. "We want," he said, "to encourage the proper kind of visitor to Howth, but at present one could not invite a friend to Howth knowing that bedlam would be his lot on his homeward journey. We would welcome the city opening hours of 2 till 5 down here."

Superintendent Greaney said that, as far as he knew, the conditions were no worse now than they ever were.

The Justice said that he took it that the objectors did not oppose the renewal of the licences, and accordingly he granted them. He welcomed Mr. Newcombe and Mr. Burke to the Court, and said that they had acted as conscientious citizens. He had grave doubts of the advisability of granting the substitution of Sunday opening hours in future, and when these applications came on in the spring he would consider them very carefully.

BIG MIMIC BATTLE

"TEAR GAS" AND "GANGSTER" CARS

Fifty thousand British troops, with tanks, armoured cars, aeroplanes and all the paraphernalia of war, have been assembled in Hampshire, Wiltshire and Sussex for the biggest mimic battle that has ever taken place in England. Many devices will be introduced to give an air of realism to the "war." "Tear gas" will be used, and the "gangster" cars of the 3rd Hussars, with their machine guns in revolving cupolas, will be watched closely.

In the main the scheme will be directed towards testing important changes which have taken place in regard to mechanisation, and experts will study the use of the "I" tanks to find out the best means of co-operation between infantry and armoured fighting machines. The plan of campaign is a well-guarded secret.

An elderly man named John Carroll was found dead yesterday in a room which he occupied at 8 Talbot place, Dublin. He had been living alone in the room for some time. The ambulance removed the body to Jervis Street Hospital, and an inquest will be held to-day.

HOUSING LOANS AND COSTS

COUNTY COUNCIL INQUIRY

SENIOR COUNSEL TO BE CONSULTED

THE Dublin County Council held a special meeting last night in the County Council Offices, Parnell square, Dublin, to consider a statement made by the Chairman (Mr. P. Belton, T.D.) at a previous meeting, that it had come to his knowledge that the Council had advanced the total purchase price of certain houses under the Small Dwellings Acquisition Act.

At a meeting last week the Chairman said that the statement had been discussed at a Committee meeting of the Council, and during the discussion that followed it had been ascertained on taking one case at random out of fifteen that an application for a loan of £400 had been received in March, 1935, and stating that the estimated cost of the house was £500. It then transpired that the selling price of the house had been £400, and the figure had been embodied in the deed of sale. The fact was, that the house had been sold for £400, and the grant given had been 80 per cent. of the cost stated in the application form—namely, £500.

At the previous meeting it was decided to adjourn the matter until last night for the purpose of having the Law Agent and other persons concerned present.

FINGLAS HOUSES

When the meeting opened last night, the Chairman said that the matter they were investigating was important and had arisen out of houses on the Jamestown road, Finglas, built by the St. Canice's Utility Society, and sold to certain people, all of whom, he understood, applied for loans under the Small Dwellings Act, and nearly all of them got loans. He had directed that the chairman and secretary of the Utility Society should be invited to attend, and also Mr. Gibney, who valued the houses on behalf of the Council.

The Assistant Secretary (Mr. McGuire) said that those to whom loans were made, and whose loans were not yet approved, had been summoned. At the moment Mr. Gibney was away and would not return for a week. The secretary of the Utility Society (Mr. Heffernan) and the chairman (Mr. Tunney) were present.

Mr. J. J. Sheil, solicitor, said that he appeared for the Public Utility Society, the secretary of the Committee, and a number of the tenant purchasers. The nature of the inquiry had, however, not been disclosed to him.

Mr. Brady asked if the applicants were present.

The Chairman said they were invited to be in attendance, and if they did not appear there they might have to appear somewhere else.

APPLICANTS' STATEMENTS

Mr. Sheridan, one of the applicants, said that the approximate cost of his house was £500, and he was aware that a loan of £400 would be given by the County Council under the Small Dwellings Acquisition Act.

The Chairman asked if the witness would only get a loan of £400 and the house cost £500, who was to pay the £100 difference.

The witness replied that he was not directly asked to make a deposit of £100, but he expected all the time that he would have to pay the difference of £100. He believed when making the application that the house would cost £500. His application for the loan was made on May 10th, 1935, and at that time he had not signed any agreement to buy the house.

The Chairman said that the Council was responsible for £6,000 or £8,000 which, in his opinion, had been advanced on loan directly contrary to law. If they had made a mistake in lending that money they would be amenable to the Department for Local Government and Public Health and surcharged.

Mr. Ellison, another applicant, also gave evidence of a nature similar to Mr. Sheridan.

SECRETARY'S EVIDENCE

Mr. Heffernan, secretary of the St. Canice's Public Utility Society, gave evidence that when the applicants came to him he roughly estimated the cost of the houses at £500.

When asked by the Chairman whether that was the final cut, the witness said that he had not had any opportunity of consulting his committee on this matter. He had simply received an invitation to attend there, and he did so in his personal capacity.

In reply to the Chairman, Mr. Tunney, who is chairman of the Public Utility Society, said that thirty-four houses were erected under the scheme, but the total cost was not yet available.

CHAIRMAN'S CHALLENGE

The Chairman challenged Mr. Tunney, chairman; Mr. Shiel, legal adviser, and Mr. Heffernan, secretary of the society, to deny that the total cost of thirty-four houses was not more than £12,500. He challenged any of the three to disprove his allegation that the houses did not cost the society more than £330 each and that the society got £400 from the Council for each house.

Mr. Tunney said that this was the only society which had been picked out in this way. When other societies were asked to produce figures of their cost, his society would produce figures. He asked the Law Adviser to tell them if there was an irregularity to be inquired into at all.

In reply to Mr. R. Blake, Mr. Tunney said that the houses were worth £500, and the proof of that was that if any one of the applicants surrendered his house to-morrow he would have no difficulty in getting a buyer at £500 in five minutes.

Other men who had made applications said that, on the advice of the Secretary of the Utility Society, they wrote down the estimated cost of the house as £500. One of them said he believed that he would have to pay the difference between £400, the amount of the loan, and the £500 estimated cost.

A number of the applicants said that they formed the estimate of the building cost of the houses at £500 themselves. They were satisfied with their bargains.

On the motion of the Chairman, seconded by Mr. Corr, it was decided to ask the Law Agent to submit the matter to senior counsel.

The motion was passed, and the meeting adjourned.

BUTTER STOCKS ON 31ST AUGUST, 1935

The following table, which has been compiled by the Department of Agriculture from returns furnished under the Dairy Produce Act, 1931, shows the quantity of butter held on the 31st ultimo in all public cold stores in Saorstat Eireann and at the premises of manufacturers of creamery and factory butter and principal merchants. The figures do not include day-to-day stocks in the hands of shopkeepers:—

	Creamery Butter. cwt.	Factory and other Butter. cwt.
Held in public cold stores for:
(a) Creamery proprietors	6,751	—
(b) Other persons	5,398	4,082
Held at creameries	15,931	—
Held at merchants' premises and butter factories	886	3,768
Totals on 31st August	28,966	7,850
Totals on 15th August	25,190	10,334

In the period from the 16th to the 31st August the production of creamery butter was approximately 59,094 cwt., and the quantity stated to have been exported was 40,309 cwt. Public cold stores received 16,980 cwt., and the withdrawals amounted to 12,066 cwt., leaving a net movement of 4,914 cwt. of creamery butter into public cold stores.

The police last night were trying to identify the body of an elderly man found in a sitting posture at the foot of a tree in Epping Forest yesterday, having been dead about forty-eight hours. There was a bullet wound in his head and a pistol of foreign make containing one spent cartridge was lying near. The man was about sixty years of age, and his clothing contained no clue to his identity, beyond a label in his cap bearing the name of a Ponders' End drapery firm.

OIL COMPANY RESIGNATIONS

MOSUL AND B.O.D.

It was officially announced last night that Sir Edward M. Mountain and Mr. L. C. Patterson have resigned their directorships of Mosul Oil Fields, Limited, and its associated concern, British Oil Development Company, Limited.

The resignations have been accepted.

Mr. F. W. Rickett, who secured the recent Abyssinian concession, was closely concerned with the formation of the British Oil Development Company.

Mosul Oil Fields, Ltd., a private company, with a capital of £1,850,000, was registered in 1932, to acquire all the shares of the British Oil Development Co., Ltd., which was granted a concession of about 45,000 square miles from the Iraq Government.

According to the 1935 Stock Exchange Year-Book Viscount Goschen, the chairman, was supported on the board of directors by, among others, two Italians, one Frenchman and two Germans. The new board of directors, omitting Sir Edward Mountain and Mr. Patterson, consists of thirteen members, and includes five Italians, one Frenchman and two Germans.

The Press Association has been informed that Italian interests have acquired sufficient shares to have been £400, and the figure had been embodied in the deed of sale. The fact was, that the house had been sold for £400, and the grant given had been 80 per cent. of the cost stated in the application form—namely, £500.

At the previous meeting it was decided to adjourn the matter until last night for the purpose of having the Law Agent and other persons concerned present.

PHOTOGRAPHS BY RADIO

SUCCESS OF U.S. EXPERIMENT

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

NEW YORK, Monday.

Radio photographs of Sir Malcolm Campbell's recent speed trials at Utah were flashed simultaneously to New York and London. An experiment was tried in the New York operating room of the Radio Corporation of America to increase the speed with which a picture of the Englishman's run could reach England.

The operating room tried "splitting" the radio signals carrying news photographs from San Francisco. This was done by routing the signals to two separate amplifiers, one operating a recorder in New York and another actuating a radio transmitter at Rocky Point, Long Island, in service with London.

The experiment worked, and the Corporation carried a news picture straight from San Francisco to London, dropping off a copy in New York, all in one operation.

Engineers pointed out that, in addition to the saving of time resulting from this achievement, London also benefited by getting a picture as clear as that produced in New York, due to the elimination of "double screening," which would occur if New York had been obliged to transmit the received picture instead of automatically relaying impulses obtained from the original photograph.

UNREST IN CYRENAICA

DENIAL OF ITALIAN ALLEGATIONS

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

ALEXANDRIA, Monday.

The Egyptian Government to-night issued a reply to Signor Gayda's article in the Voce d'Italia making allegations regarding the movements of Senussi chiefs who are refugees in Egypt. The Government declares:—

(1) The Voce d'Italia's allegations regarding the assembling of Senussi on the Cyrenaica frontier are completely without foundation.

(2) It is equally untrue that the Senussi chief El Sayed Safyeddine met the Egyptian War Minister and the British Egyptian Army Inspector at Maa Sa Matrouh.

(3) It is absolutely untrue that Abdan Galil, or any other Senussi, has offered his service to the Egyptian authorities to foment trouble in Cyrenaica.

It is pointed out that since the Senussi chiefs left Djaghboub in 1926 and took refuge in Egypt they have been established at Marsa Matrouh, in order to avoid the possibility of complaints by the Italian authorities.

The Egyptian authorities in 1931 forbade the Senussi chiefs to visit the Siwa oasis on account of its proximity to Djaghboub. They were only allowed to send one delegate to superintend their estates. When the situation was calm, in 1934, they were allowed to return to Siwa in parties of two or three, on condition that no man stayed for longer than one month, and did not leave Egyptian territory.

LAD WHO FOUND £628

AWARDED £20 BY POLICE COURT

A special police court was held at Girvan, Ayrshire, yesterday, to decide what reward should be paid to John Ross, aged fourteen, of Bourtree Hall, Girvan, who found a cloth bag containing £628 in notes at Girvan on Saturday last. Mrs. Janet McDonald, of Glasgow, claimed the money, and offered Ross a small reward. The court awarded him £20.

Mrs. McDonald carried the money, which was her life savings, in a bag tied by string underneath her clothing, and, the string having broken, the bag was lost. The boy, Ross, is the son of a miner. When he took the money home his mother sent him to the police.

GARDEN, FARM, BEES, ETC.

FRUIT.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Garden Correspondent says:—Cut away all the canes that have borne fruit from raspberries, leaving only four to six of the strongest of the young canes to bear fruit next year. Sturdy young canes growing between the rows should be carefully lifted for the formation of new plantations if required, and if kept moist during dry weather may bear fruit the first year; in any case, they will become established before the severe weather set in. New plantations of strawberries may still be made as directed. Late grapes will require all the air possible during fine, dry weather, and, perhaps, a little fire-heat at night to dispel damp. Examine the bunches for decaying berries. These if not cut out at once will soon affect the entire bunch. Early vineries and peach-houses may have full ventilation to ripen the wood. As soon as the leaves have fallen the interior of the houses should be thoroughly washed down, and if painting is necessary it should be performed while the houses can be allowed to remain open.
